

HITLER FOLLOWS ARMY INTO SULLEN PRAGUE; CZECHS HISS GOOSESTEPPING CONQUERORS

STIFF OPPOSITION THROWN AGAINST NEW SALES TAX

Stop-Gap Levy Introduced in House Despite Numerous Efforts of Members To Halt It.

LEGISLATORS MUST ACT ON BILL TODAY

Rivers Says He Will Call Extra Session If Agreement Can Be Reached.

New sales tax proposal, brought forward by administration leaders in a last-minute effort to finance the program of Governor Rivers, was introduced in the house yesterday and immediately encountered resistance from sales tax opponents.

The opposition made three attempts to adjourn the house, a move to print the new proposal before consideration and three efforts to halt reading of the bill because the house previously had rejected a sales levy. Their efforts were without avail for the moment and the clerk resumed reading the bill, intended as a stop-gap measure.

The proposal, for a 2 per cent sales levy, was offered as a substitute for an amendment to the general tax act and was signed by Corbett, of Atkinson, and others.

The renewed fight for enactment of a sales tax followed announcement by Rivers that he would call the legislature into special session if a majority of the lawmakers would indicate a willingness to finance his program. The regular session expires at midnight Saturday.

Numerous interruptions by sales tax opponents reading of the bill required two hours. When it was concluded the house adjourned, postponing action on the bill until today, the deadline for house passage, if it is to be enacted at this session.

Challenged on the right of the house to consider any more sales tax proposals this session, Speaker Harris ruled the bill substituted could be considered and acted upon. An appeal was taken, but his ruling was sustained, 132 to 30.

"What's the difference between a sales tax and a sales tax, Mr. Speaker?" shouted H. B. Edwards, of Lowndes county, among leaders opposing consideration.

Carmichael, of Cobb; Evans, of McDuffie; Guyton, of Effingham, and others, cited house rules in asserting the bill could not be acted upon.

Food Exemptions. On the clerk's desk at adjournment were two amendments, to exempt all food, whether in the natural or processed state, and livestock sales.

Besides the sales tax proposal, another bill was offered in substitute of the original measure—a bill by Clements, of Wheeler, to add a seventh cent to the state tax on gasoline.

The move was an asserted effort to raise funds for current school teacher pay rolls and to finance the Welfare Department's

Franklin D. Roosevelt Gets License—Late

If you see the tag pictured above on the highways of Georgia this year do not mistake the owner of the car. It's Franklin D. Roosevelt, the President, and doesn't belong to a Mr. F. D. R. Jones. Mrs. Lorena Whelchel, of the state motor vehicle bureau, is shown displaying the tag sent to the President yesterday by Ed Williams, director of the bureau.

Wesleyan College Option To Repurchase Exercised

Oldest Chartered Woman's College in the World Saved to Methodism; $300,000 of Needed $600,000 Reported Pledged at Macon Meeting.

Historic Wesleyan College, oldest chartered woman's college in the world, was saved to Methodism when leaders of the church exercised an option to repurchase institutional properties, lost in a foreclosure sale last March, at a meeting yesterday at Macon.

As an evidence of good faith the Wesleyan Corporation, an organization of four trustees of the college, paid $50,000 to the bondholders' committee to seal the proposal, and indicated that the rest would be forthcoming with the completion of the campaign for $600,000, half of which was reported subscribed at the meeting yesterday.

Satisfaction was expressed by more than 50 church officials at the conference, and plans were discussed for continuing the canvass for funds.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth announced from Macon last night that every effort would be made to bring the campaign to a rapid and successful conclusion.

"We are going to continue the campaign, confident in the knowledge that our efforts will meet with every success," he declared. "Reports submitted at the meeting today indicated that approximately $330,000 of the total required already has been pledged."

The money pledged will be applied to the debt as soon as received. Methodist leaders were jubilant as they left Macon last night. It was pointed out by campaign directors that the result had been exceedingly satisfactory in view of the fact that the campaign had been under way but little more than a week.

Bishop Ainsworth declared that while many church groups and denominational organizations already have made pledges to the campaign, individuals have not yet been approached.

"Pledges already received," he said, "indicate that the people are full in support of our program."

Modern 'Paul Revere' Bursts Windows With Fists

COMPROMISE PLAN ON RELIEF FUNDS HINTED IN CAPITOL

Specific Form Is Not Divulged as Harrington Testifies on Needs for Extra Appropriation.

'ROTATION' SYSTEM FAVORED BY HEAD

Method Would Replace Those on Rolls a Long Time With New Workers

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) Compromise talk was heard faintly in the house today in connection with the quarrel between members of congress and President Roosevelt over the latter's desire for an immediate supplemental appropriation of $150,000,000 for work relief.

It came, to the surprise of some, from highly placed Republicans, who predicted that such a solution would eventually become necessary, but advanced no specific proposals as to the form it might take.

Harrington Testifies.

Meanwhile, Colonel F. C. Harrington, the relief administrator, appeared before the house subcommittee studying the relief problem and presented arguments to back up the President's request for more money. He produced figures to show just how the relief rolls would be cut in each state unless the additional appropriation were granted.

Harrington was asked many questions, principally by Democratic members—most of the Republicans are leaving the opposition for the present to Democrats of the economy bloc.

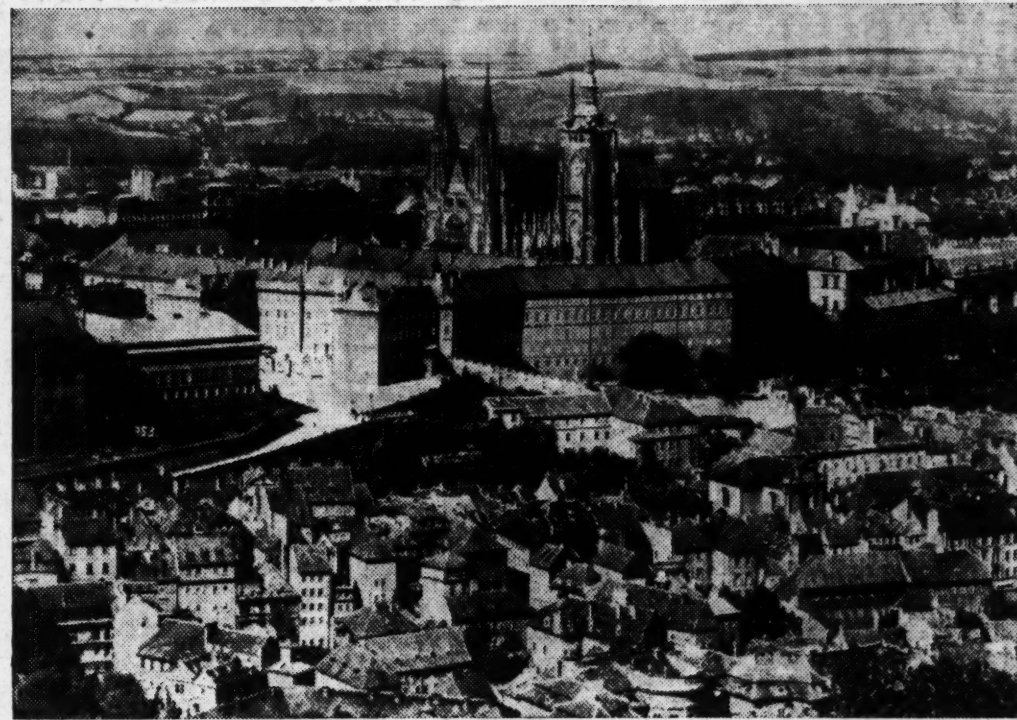

One of the queries produced a suggestion which obviously had possibilities of affording a compromise basis later. It was that work relief be "staggered," that is that needy persons be given employment for two or three weeks out of each month instead of for the full period.

Rotation System.

A committee member said that Harrington "frowned the suggestion down," and asserted that if any staggering were to be done he would prefer a "rotation system," under which workers who have been on the rolls for long periods would be laid off and their jobs given for a time to people who have been certified as in need of relief, but for whom no place on the rolls has been found.

The day also brought what some thought was an administration counter move to the resolution introduced yesterday by Representative

SENATE ADAMANT ON HUIET SHACKLE

Votes 31 to 15 To Retain Amendment Shearing Him of Bureau Control.

By The Associated Press.

By a vote of 31 to 15, the senate yesterday declined to recede from its plan to shear Labor Commissioner Ben Huiet of control over the unemployment compensation division and the state employment service.

Tuesday the house failed to accept a senate amendment to a house bill which would have set up the two divisions independently of the labor commissioner. Yesterday's action by the senate was in the nature of insisting that the house retain the amendment.

Dismissal of L. P. James and Marion A. O'Connor, heads of the two divisions, by Commissioner Huiet on charges of "political maneuvering and trickery" was followed by an order from Governor Rivers reinstating the two pending a hearing on fresh ouster charges Saturday.

Yesterday the Labor Department, in answer to queries, said the offices of James and O'Connor "are open but they are not here—you will find them at the capitol." An executive added that the two had been in the department yesterday morning.

Commissioner Huiet could not be reached for comment on the situation, his office reporting that he, also, was "out of the office."

Supporters of former Governor Talmadge entered the house debate in behalf of Huiet, long a friend of Talmadge, preceding the

England 'Punishes' Fuehrer By Canceling Trade Talks

Chamberlain Tells Tense Commons 'I Bitterly Regret' German Coup, But Is Wearily Impassive in Face of Criticism of 'Credulity.'

LONDON, March 15.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain replied to Adolf Hitler's swift liquidation of Czechoslovakia today by excluding Germany, for the present, from Britain's drive for conciliation through trade.

Before a tense, uneasy house of commons the prime minister declared "I bitterly regret" the German Fuehrer's action, which he described as a "shock to confidence all the more regrettable since confidence was beginning to revive."

In grave tones both Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax noted that Germany, in taking over Bohemia and Moravia, was for the first time effecting military occupation of territory populated by non-Germanic peoples.

Halifax spoke in the house of lords and made the same reference as Chamberlain to the "shock to confidence."

While Germany's forces were marching through the time-worn courtyards of Prague, Chamberlain was taunted by a British Labor party spokesman with charges of Britain's "humiliation and shame" through the German coup.

In addition, Anthony Eden, who resigned as foreign secretary 13 months ago in disagreement with Chamberlain's foreign policy, renewed his request for an all-party government to "banish from our people haunting fear."

After quoting from Hitler's autobiographical book, "Mein Kampf," Eden said the present European situation was beyond party controversy and called for establishment of a coalition government of all parties.

Eden quoted: "The wise victor will if possible always impose his claim on the defeated people, stage by stage, dealing with the people that has grown defeated, and this is every people which has voluntarily submitted to force."

"He may then rely on the fact that in not one of these further acts of oppression will it seem sufficient reason to take up arms again."

Chamberlain and Halifax both announced that the projected visits of Oliver Stanley, Board of Trade president, and Overseas Trade Secretary R. S. Hudson to Berlin for trade talks would be "inappropriate" now and had been "postponed."

Hudson, however, will go ahead

ANGRY RESIDENTS THROW SNOWBALLS IN FUTILE GESTURE

Hitler Carries Through What Bismarck Shrank From Doing—Without Plaudits or Garlands.

PRUSSIANS SET UP MILITARY REGIME

Platoon of Native Police Forced To Protect Armored Cars From Crowd

PRAGUE, March 15.—(AP)

Adolf Hitler took possession of Bohemia and Moravia today, personally following his gray-clad Nazi troops into Prague itself with a suddenness that completely surprised an already bewildered Czech population.

Tonight he symbolized his lightning conquest by sleeping in historic Hradcany castle, burial vault of makers of Bohemian history, and more recently the residence of Czechoslovak republic presidents.

(Exchange Telegraph dispatches to London said Hitler was expected to make a public speech in Prague tomorrow before students of the German University and high schools. The hour of the speech was not set.)

Without the customary fanfare, the victorious Fuehrer entered the city quietly at 7 p. m., following hours later behind columns of his troops who were hissed and booed by sullen, fearful Czechs—their 20 years of independence now only a memory.

Military Rule.

As the Fuehrer entered Prague the Prussian military already had set up a temporary military and civic government to rule Bohemia and Moravia as protectorates of the greater German Reich, in which they are to be simply cultural islands.

Within an hour of Hitler's arrival his standard was raised over the old castle, towering above the city, in which he slept tonight. There were no cheers, no plaudits, no garlands for the master of greater Germany as there were when he entered "liberated" Austria one year ago and the Sudetenland last October.

Hitler thus carried through what the great "iron chancellor," Bismarck, shrank from doing—taking command of southern Bohemia.

His third Reich troops received the coldest greeting they have had in any of the territories into which they have gone to fulfill the idea of a greater Germany.

Prague's residents, without fear and contrary to repeated appeals made by loudspeaker set up in the capital's principal streets, loudly hissed and booed the troops. They

Georgia-Born Woman Doctor Uncovers Cure for the Dread Germ of Meningitis

Dr. Sara Branham Combines Serum and Sulfanilamide Treatment To Win

She killed millions of killers! And the story of this Georgia woman, Dr. Sara Branham, mighty microbe hunter, is more exciting than a narrative of a running gun battle between police and the most desperate public enemy in the world.

Here's a part of it, as told by J. D. Ratcliff in his article on "Lady of the Lab," in the current issue of McCall's:

"Bit by bit she piled up her information and gathered more meningitis information than anyone had previously collected."

"One day Dr. Sanford Rosenthal, health service pharmacologist, dropped in her lab. While passing the time of day, he suggested that they might see what sulfanilamide would do. That's the new drug that has the miraculous ability to cure such diseases as childhood fever, some forms of mastoiditis, gonorrhea and erysipelas, the skin disease.

cages and put 10 mice in each cage. Forty times that day she sent the hypo plunger down with her thumb, sending enough microbes into each mouse's belly to kill it 100,000 times over.

"The mice in Cage No. 1 were the 'controls.' They would get no further attention. Within 24 hours they would die to prove the potency of the bacterial cultures. The mice in Cage No. 2 got serum, and those in No. 3 sulfanilamide. Those in No. 4 got both serum and sulfanilamide.

"Death was right on schedule in cage No. 1. A couple of days later six of the mice were dead in cage No. 2 and five in cage No. 3.

"But in the cage where they had gotten both serum and sulfanilamide all were alive! Alive when they should have been dead 100,000 times over!

"Checks and rechecks banish the fear that there had been a slip-up."

AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

50 Schools To Take Part in Fete at Decatur.

A concert by the Charlotte (N. C.) High school orchestra, conducted by Robert C. Smith, will be one of the highlights of the Fifth District Music Festival, Friday and Saturday, in Decatur.

More than 50 elementary and high schools of DeKalb, Fulton and Rockdale counties and the cities of Atlanta and Decatur will take part in the two-day program. The festival will be held in the Boys' and Girls' High school, in Decatur.

Student musicians will compete for first places in instrumental, singing, orchestra and chorus performance.

Mrs. Ruby White Brown, supervisor of music in the Decatur schools, is chairman of the festival, and Lamar Ferguson, supervisor of Decatur city schools, will be host. Contests will open at 9 o'clock each morning.

Group singing is a regular part of the study and recreation program carried on by home demonstration agents in Louisiana.

TAILOR'S IRON BLAMED

An overheated iron was blamed by firemen for the blaze which early yesterday morning started in the tailoring establishment of I. Preis at 629 Peachtree street, sending smoke into adjoining buildings.

Three companies of firemen responded to the blaze, which aroused scores of persons in the Ponce de Leon and Peachtree street area.

C. L. Hoenshel, operator of a restaurant at 625 Peachtree street, announced yesterday his establishment was not disturbed and business is continuing as usual. A pudding plant operated by him on the second floor was undisturbed also, Hoenshel said.

National Soap Box Derby Finals
May Be Transferred to Atlanta

William E. Holler, President of Enterprise, Visits Here.

Prospects of Atlanta becoming the Soap Box Derby center of the nation were pictured yesterday by William E. Holler, president of the Soap Box Derby, Inc., an enterprise of the Chevrolet Motor Division.

In Atlanta on a business trip, Holler said there is a possibility the national finals of the Soap Box Derby might be moved here from Akron, Ohio, if adequate facilities are provided for the annual speedway classic. The Constitution sponsors the Derby each year in Atlanta.

Holler commended The Constitution for its contribution to the success of the Derby and praised the rapid progress it has been making in the past few years.

Holler said he saw a bright outlook for business during the spring and early summer, explaining that "our national sales are more than 30 per cent ahead of last year for January and February."

"The Chevrolet dealers of this area reflect the upturn in business that has occurred nationally for they show a 40 per cent gain in sales over last year at this time," he added.

Holler has just completed a business trip covering the entire country. During this trip he had an opportunity to study the trends in business.

"So confident of business improvement nationally are the 9,000 Chevrolet dealers that they have set a goal of 100,000 new cars and trucks during March," he said. "The impact on business improvement of that effort alone cannot be overestimated."

The visiting executive conferred with 200 dealers and field executives of the Atlanta zone at lunch yesterday at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

He has achieved national recognition for his work in improving factory-dealer relationships and on April 19 will be principal speaker at the convention of the National Automobile Dealers' Association in San Francisco.

Holler will leave Atlanta tonight for Birmingham. His itinerary for the next month will include dealer meetings in Birmingham, Louisville, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond and New York.

PLAN EXEMPTIONS

Amendment Discussed To Exempt 'White Collar' Workers.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) "White collar" workers above a specified salary level would be exempt from the federal labor standards law under an amendment discussed today by officials of the Wage-Hour Administration.

Some committee members said the idea of the administration was that the proposed exemption should not apply to persons making less than $2,400 a year.

They said Elmer F. Andrews, the wage-hour administrator, expressed no opinion, but that his legal aides outlined the amendment as one possible solution of complaints that the law on working hours interfered with the work of newspapermen, commercial artists and numerous other groups.

The wage-hour attorneys indicated, it was reported, that they thought $3,000 should be the salary level above which the exemption would apply, but that a level as low as $2,400 would be acceptable. Others have suggested exempting persons making $1,200 or more.

Awards Feature State D. A. R. Meeting

41st Annual Georgia Convention of the Organization Will Close Here With Breakfast Today.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

Election of Mrs. J. A. Rounsaville, regent of the Xavier chapter of Rome, as an honorary state regent, and Mrs. Reuben Garland, of Atlanta, as chairman of the State Junior Assembly, a newly created office, and the trophy awards and committee reports featured yesterday's session of the three-day conference of Georgia society D. A. R., now convening at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Sessions this morning beginning with the resolutions committee breakfast at 7 o'clock, followed by the three-day conference of the 41st annual state meeting to a close.

Last evening at the Regents Night banquet, Mrs. W. Harrison Hightower, of Thomaston, state regent, presided, and the program included reports of chapter regents from throughout the state. Presentations were made in the reverse order of the chapters' organization date and opened with the report by Mrs. Henry Masburn, regent of the newly formed General David Blackshear chapter, of Rochelle, and closed with the report of Mrs. Owen McConnell, regent of the Atlanta chapter. The latter organization is the oldest in the state and the second oldest in the United States.

Other features of the program were the musical numbers by the Georgia State Girls' Military Band, the assembly call by the trumpet, Frances Stewart, and a violin solo by Mrs. L. D. Scott, accompanied by Mrs. Rebecca Cooper. Mrs. E. Blount Freeman, state recording secretary, read the minutes and prayer, and benediction was led by Mrs. T. J. Sappington, state chaplain.

Mrs. Hightower, state regent, and Mrs. T. C. Mell, state first vice regent, presided at the sessions of the conference yesterday morning and afternoon. Mrs. James N. Brawner, state editor, Georgia D. A. R., presented the May Phillips Mims trophy given for the best publicity to the Hawkinsville chapter, in Hawkinsville, of which Mrs. T. L. Underwood is regent, and Mrs. W. V. Bell is publicity chairman. Honorable mention went to the Elijah Clarke chapter, of Athens, of which Mrs. Joel Wier is regent, and Mrs. Frank C. Ward is publicity chairman.

Mrs. Howard McCall, general chairman, reported for the Georgia D. A. R. student loan funds and announced that there had been $50,000 in chapter and state funds in circulation for education for 200 boys and girls since 1917. Georgia was the first state to have a D. A. R. state loan fund in the national society. Six years later, the N. S. D. A. R. formed a similar establishment. Mrs. McCall also made the announcement and awarded the radio prize for the radio chairman, Mrs. Frances Brown Chase, whose illness prevented her presence. The award was given the Elijah Clarke chapter, in Athens, of which Mrs. Joel Wier is the chairman, with honorable mention going to the Atlanta chapter in Atlanta, of which Mrs. Owen McConnell is regent, and the George Walton chapter, of Columbus, of which Mrs. James Nucholls is regent. Mrs. McCall also announced that Mrs. William A. Becker, honorary president general of the N. S. D. A. R., who is attending the state conference, would speak over radio station WSB today at 12:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Harrison Hightower awarded the Mrs. John A. Perdue loving cup to the General David Blackshear Chapter of Rochelle, of which Mrs. Henry Masburn is regent, as the group having the largest number of subscriptions per capita to the national D. A. R. historical magazine. Mrs. W. D. Fitzgerald is magazine chairman and the chapter has 23 members and 25 subscriptions. The state regents' award of $10 to each of the chapters having the next two highest number of subscriptions were awarded to the General David Blackshear Chapter of Rochelle, and the Nancy Hart Chapter of Milledgeville, of which Mrs. Guy Wells is regent and Mrs. Charles Moore is magazine chairman.

Subscriptions to the magazines went to the next five chapters per capita. The John A. Perdue Chapter, of Thomaston; the Joseph Habersham, of Atlanta; the Tomochichi, of Clarksville; the Edmund Burke, of Waynesboro, and the Pulaski, of Griffin.

The Elijah Clarke Chapter of Athens, of which Mrs. Joel Wier is regent, was awarded the Katherine Stanley Daniel trophy, given by Mrs. John B. Daniel, of Savannah, for the great number of historical collections. Mrs. Eli Thomas, of Atlanta, presented the Helen McCall Bashinski trophy, given by Mrs. I. Bashinski, of Sunbury Chapter of Winder, of which Mrs. I. E. Jackson is regent, for the best collection and preservation of family records. Mrs. Dan Williamson is chairman of this committee. Honorable mention was given to the Nancy Hart Chapter of Milledgeville and the Button Gwinnett Chapter of Columbus.

A memorial service was conducted by Mrs. T. J. Sappington, state chaplain, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Selman and Mrs. Carter Prather.

The Junior groups of the Georgia society who are meeting in convention with the state conference for the first time, yesterday elected Mrs. Reuben Garland, of Atlanta, and chairman of the Atlanta chapter group, as state Junior assembly chairman. The office is a newly created post and elected to serve with her were Mrs. H. W. McLarty, chairman of the Joseph Habersham Chapter, secretary; Mrs. Oscar House, chairman of the John Benning Chapter, of Moultrie, treasurer, and Mrs. Esmond Wallhall, of Atlanta, press chairman. Mrs. John S. Adams, state chairman of the Junior groups, presided.

Yesterday morning, Mrs. Adams announced that Mrs. William

Pouch, of New York, national president of the C. A. R., had given a check to the Junior group and that another check given by Mrs. Pouch to Mrs. Harrison Hightower, who in turn would present it to the Junior group, had been presented to the Junior groups. The Helen Pouch scholarship fund for approved schools, established in memory of Mrs. Pouch's daughter, received $61 from the state executive board, it was announced by Mrs. Adams. Mrs. Adams also reported the operation of the Junior groups throughout the state in all phases of D. A. R. work and said that they had stressed the study of what the D. A. R. do and accomplish.

Yesterday morning the chapter regents' breakfast was given by Mrs. Harrison Hightower, state regent. She said in part:

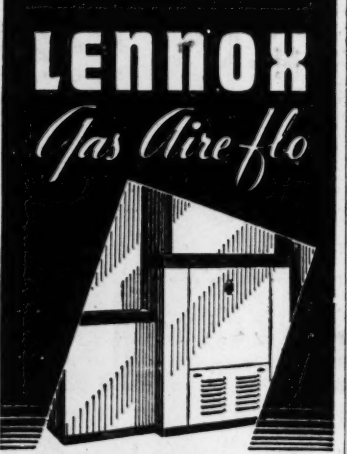

"We shall continue our approved schools work as one of our main projects during the next year. Through the counsel and leadership of the members, and the wise leadership of the two regents, the Jonathan Bryan chapter was merged with Lyman Hall chapter and we now have one instead of two chapters at Waycross without losing a single member. The 13 members of Hawthorne Trail chapter have resigned and the chapter will be presented for official disbandment. General David Blackshear chapter was organized at Rochelle in November by Mrs. Henry Masburn, organizing regent, and is already co-operating and accomplishing great things under her leadership. I have made 35 chapter visits, attended 20 junior groups meetings and six dedications of markers. Only the magnificent co-operation of the two Atlanta chapters, and the two junior groups under the general chairmanship of the state first vice regent, has made the arrangements for conference possible. The Georgia Junior Assembly, held at this conference, is a step forward, and during the next year we should stress junior memberships and junior groups, for in the hands of these, our daughters, lies the future not only of our society but of our country, for they are the mothers, the molders, and the makers of America's tomorrow."

Georgia daughters and visitors in attendance at the conference yesterday were given a jolt of amusement during the more serious side of committee reports when Mrs. Julian McCurry, of Athens, read the following poem during the session, which had been written by Miss Lucile Kenderick. It follows:

"Hush, little baby, here comes the car,
Mamma's got to go to the D. A. R.
Don't you cry and raise a commotion,
Mamma's on the program to make a motion.

"You're the last word in evolution,
But Mamma's got to fight the Revolution.
Don't fall in the fire or play in the tar,
Mamma's gone to the D. A. R.!"

GEORGIA'S LAST REAL D. A. R. WILLS MONEY TO SOCIETY

An Atlanta orphan's home and the D. A. R. were named in the will of Georgia's last real daughter of the American Revolution, it was announced yesterday at the forty-first state conference of the Georgia D. A. R.

Mrs. Mary Pool Newsome, who died on February 11, 1939, was one of four real daughters in the United States. Her will, dated March 8, 1932, left a portion of her estate to the Georgia Baptist Orphan's Home and the N. S. D. A. R. Reading of the will to delegates at the conference yesterday was one of the highlights of the program and was presented by Mrs. Y. H. Yarbrough, of Milledgeville. The will is as follows:

"I, Mary Pool Newsome, of said state and county, being of sound and disposing mind and memory do make this my last will and testament hereby revoking all wills heretofore made by me, 'I wish my executors as soon as possible after my death to pay all my just debts.

"I give to D. W. Barfield, if he should be the longest lived, the amount of one dollar.

"I give to Mrs. A. E. Cotter, one green painted chest with contents and all my wearing apparel.

"I give to A. E. Cotter one hundred dollars in cash.

"I will and desire that all my property not named in the above items be sold and after the expenses of said sale is paid I give the remainder whatever there may be to the Baptist Orphan's Home at Hapeville, Ga.

"I will at my death that my executors hereinafter named pay all my just debts and funeral expenses out of the money I have in the bank, and all other money named in Item 2 and 4 of this will, and when same is done I give to the National Society, D. A. R., having its headquarters at Washington in the District of Columbia, the balance of the money, whatever there may be, the said money to be used and expended for the objects and purposes for which the National Society was incorporated.

"I do hereby appoint T. A. Walden and A. E. Cotter as my executors of this, my will, and do not require them to give any bond or make returns thereof in testimony thereof, I have hereto set my hand and seal this 8th day of March, 1932. Signed, Mary Pool Newsome.

"Signed and published by Mary Pool Newsome as her last will and testament in the presence of the undersigned who subscribe our names hereto as witnesses at the instance and request of said testator and in her presence and in the presence of each this 8th day of March, 1932. M. L. Logue, J. A. Griffin and T. A. Walden."

POLITICAL EXPENSE LIMIT IS DEFEATED

Senate Votes, 23 to 18, Against Campaign Bill.

A bill to limit campaign expenditures in Georgia elections was defeated by the state senate yesterday.

Approved by the house, the measure would have limited money spent for gubernatorial and United States senatorial campaigns to $10,000; for congressional and statehouse posts to $2,500; for state senatorial $300 and state house of representatives $250.

Representatives Hunt Maxwell, of Muscogee county, and L. R. Morgan, of Troup, sponsored the measure. The senate voted 23 against and 18 for the bill.

MUSTEROLE
To quickly relieve distress—rub soothing, warming Musterole on your chest, throat and back.
Musterole is NOT "just a salve." It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned remedies for distress of colds—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other helpful ingredients.
That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole penetrates the surface skin, stimulates, warms and soothes and quickly helps to relieve local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. In 3 strengths: Regular, Children's (Mild) and Extra Strong. 40c.

SENATE APPROVES MARKET AUTHORITY

Bill Enables Department To Establish Project in Atlanta.

The senate yesterday adopted a bill creating a state marketing authority which will enable the Department of Agriculture to set up a new farmers' market in Atlanta.

Under its provisions, an authority to be named by Governor Rivers, will obtain a site for the market and provide for its liquidation under a fee system similar to that now in use in other markets. As the senate was giving its approval to this bill, the house voted 103 to 2 to enact a bill by Representative Mankin, of Fulton, to permit the disposal of a site at Murphy avenue and Sylvan road originally purchased for a market. Property owners have protested against the erection of the market on the site and the state has decided to abandon it.

Under the terms of the Mankin bill the Murphy avenue property can be sold for the same price that it was purchased.

The senate also adopted a bill by Senator Millican to permit the Fulton commission to levy a 3-mill tax for relief purposes. The measure now goes to the house for concurrence. Senator Paul Lindsay joined in supporting the bill which was approved 31 to 0.

Rivers Entertains Governor's Daughter

Miss Mildred Chandler, 12-year-old daughter of Kentucky's Governor A. B. ("Happy") Chandler, arrived in Atlanta yesterday afternoon to spend the night with Governor and Mrs. Rivers before flying to Charleston. Governor Rivers gave her a Georgia welcome when she visited him in his office soon after her arrival.

2 PCT. SALES TAX MET BY OPPOSITION

old-age pensions, aid to needy blind, dependent children and eleemosynary institutions. Allocations from the anticipated income would be retroactive to January 1, so that the money could be used to meet the current deficit in general funds, estimated by Governor Rivers earlier in the session at $8,500,000. Two-thirds would go directly to pay school teachers and the other third to the Welfare Department.

It makes no provision for meeting either the proposed $100,598,327.28 biennial budget tabled in the house or the current appropriations of approximately $96,000,000 on which the state would be operated if the assembly fails to enact the new measure.

That financing would be contingent upon action of the special assembly to be summoned next January, at the expiration of the "stop-gap" sales tax.

The house voted 146 to 25 during the day to call upon all state departments to slash their pay rolls by 12 per cent.

Representative Lovett, of Laurens, and Representative Hill, of Screven, authors of the economy measure, estimated it would save the state $1,098,776.80 annually.

The bill provides that the 12 per cent slashed from pay rolls shall be paid into a special fund to be allocated to schools for teacher salaries.

The 12 per cent cut would not apply to salaries under $126 monthly.

As passed by the house, the bill would not mean that the salary of every individual drawing more than $126 a month would be cut 12 per cent. The cut would be to each department pay roll and department heads would have discretion as to how to distribute the reductions, either cutting salaries or reducing personnel.

Governor Rivers outlined his position on the extra session in response to a request of legislators who agreed to support the temporary sales tax if he would agree to the extra session to enact permanent financing measures. Writing to Speaker Harris, he said:

"As I have previously stated,

HOUSE APPROVES 2-CENT BEER TAX

Rejects Substitute Which Would Have Reduced Levy to 1 Cent.

By a vote of 139 to 2 the house yesterday passed a bill by Speaker Roy V. Harris to continue the present 2-cents-per-bottle tax on beer.

The measure was adopted after the house had rejected a substitute which would have reduced the tax to 1 cent per bottle. The present $4.50 per barrel tax on draft beer remains in the Harris bill.

Representative Elliott, of Muscogee, author of the substitute, said it had the approval of the revenue department. Speaking for his bill, the Muscogee representative said that the high tax had reduced the consumption of beer, slashed the state's income from the beverage tax and brought about a loss in income to railroads and other forms of transportation handling the product.

The vote against the Elliott substitute was 105 to 24.

The bill now goes to the senate. If the new tax is not adopted the levy on beer will go back to 3-4 of 1 cent per bottle as the present law expires June 30 of this year.

In asking support for his bill, Speaker Harris said he felt the high tax was necessary in order to carry out the state free school book program.

to consider calling an extraordinary session of the general assembly before the regular session of the assembly has completed its work is obviously premature. I consider it the duty of all parties concerned to exert every effort to avoid the expense of an extraordinary session of the assembly.

"In my judgment, a permanent financing plan should be enacted instead of a temporary financing plan. Nevertheless, while I reiterate that it is premature to consider an extraordinary session at this time, and while I reiterate that the expense of such a session should be avoided, I am glad to again emphasize my desire to cooperate with the assembly in any way possible.

"One-Way Street."

"I have evidenced this desire in every way that it can be evidenced; but co-operation is not a one-way street. To merit co-operation one must give co-operation. If the assembly is willing to reciprocate the co-operation I am giving the assembly by enactment of a financing plan, even only temporary, despite the fact that the emergency would only be relieved and not solved, and if a majority of the members of each house of the assembly evidences at any future date a willingness to permanently finance the program, I certainly would co-operate by calling them together in an extraordinary session and make it possible for them to do so."

Representative Lige Corbett, of Atkinson, who signed it, said the sales tax plan was "a last attempt to do something" for schools and welfare department. He estimated it would raise $5,500,000 during the nine months it is scheduled to run.

That period would be from April 1 to January 1.

The amendment levies a 2 per cent retail sales tax on merchandise for the specific purpose of benefiting teachers and the welfare department.

Tax on Utilities.
It levies also on the services of utilities, communications, transportation facilities, admissions to athletic contests except those of high school and grammar schools, admissions to theaters and other amusements.

The tax is collectible by the revenue department which would get 5 per cent for administrative costs. It would be payable monthly by the dealers and tokens would be used. The combined purchases at any one trading period would determine the amount of tax. It would be a misdemeanor for a merchant to fail to collect the tax and merchants would not be permitted to advertise that they would absorb the tax.

Specific exemptions include livestock, poultry, tobacco, peanuts, naval stores, other farm products direct from producer to consumer. Also exempted are water, ship chandler supplies, bagging and ties, cotton, fertilizer, prescription medicines, gasoline, cigars, cigarettes, wine, beer and alcoholic liquors. The bill will not levy on credit given or trade-ins of second-hand articles for new articles.

Governor Rivers told the house, "I have publicly stated that there could be no question of the emergency for an extraordinary session in the event funds are not provided at this session for the schools, the old people, the insane, the sick, the counties and the other governmental services.

"I also have said and now repeat that regardless of that emergency, unless a majority of the members of each branch of the assembly can agree and meet the emergency, to have an extraordinary session would be a futile and needless expense of funds that are sorely for these services. This is still my position.

Willing to Co-operate.
"And while I do not consider it the best plan to finance the program temporarily and then go to the expense of an extra session to finance it permanently, I am willing to give my co-operation to that plan if that is the best that a majority of the members of the house are willing to do about it. Certainly financing the program temporarily is better than not financing it at all.

"Again may I emphasize that I will co-operate and back to the limit the general assembly in anything it will do to finance the program, except doing nothing. Certainly, I do not propose to abandon this program so needed by the people of the state, and ordered

Egyptian Princess Is Wed at 17 To Crown Prince Pahlavi, of Iran

Bride Does Not Participate in Ceremony Held at Cairo Palace.

CAIRO, March 15.—(AP)—A blaze with light and spectacular fireworks, Cairo tonight celebrated the marriage of Princess Fawzia, 17-year-old sister of King Farouk, of Egypt and Crown Prince Mohammed Riza Pahlavi, of Iran (Persia).

The dark-eyed princess did not participate in the brief marriage ceremony, but in accordance with Moslem custom was secluded in another part of Abdin palace.

The marriage contract was signed in her behalf by King Farouk. A religious ceremony will be performed in Teheran April 21 after Fawzia journeys to her new home accompanied by Queen Mother Nazli and her three unmarried sisters.

After today's ceremony the bride joined her bridegroom to acknowledge the cheers of crowds beneath a balcony of Abdin palace.

by the ballots of the people of Georgia to be completed."

He said the program had been approved in three separate, consecutive elections.

Most of the day the house ground away on minor bills. Other business in brief included: Among measures reported favorably by house committees today was the resolution by Representative Edwards, of Lowndes, calling for reduction of the counties in the state from 159 to 60.

A bill to eliminate exceptions from the school equalization of education fund also was reported favorably by a house committee. Three counties, Bibb, Chatham and Muscogee now operate on the old basis and get a different distribution of funds than other schools. Chairman Wilmer Lanier, of the house economy investigating committee, indicated the group might adjourn permanently tomorrow unless the house acts upon a resolution to extend the studies to June 1.

The house passed, 114 to 0, a bill by Representative Ennis, of Baldwin, to permit the Public Welfare Department to sell surplus products from the Milledgeville hospital and other state institutions, and apply the proceeds on current debts or for maintenance costs.

The senate approved a house resolution asking that the locomotive "General" of Civil War fame be returned to Georgia for exhibition in the National park at Kennesaw mountain.

Grandmother Learns How To Play,
Recreation Leader Declares Here

Leisure Time Problems Described by Miss Ethel Bowers, Nationally-Known Authority Says; Is Directing Meeting of Atlantans Interested in Work.

By LUKE GREENE.
Grandmother's old-fashioned rocking chair doesn't creak anymore—for grandmother is learning to play.
Miss Ethel Bowers, secretary of recreation for girls and women of the National Recreation Association, is authority for that statement. She arrived in Atlanta yesterday and last night opened a training institute for social recreation leaders at the new Henry Grady High school gymnasium.
Yes, there may have been a day when grandmother whiled away many hours sitting before an open fire in her rocking chair, watching the flames take grotesque shapes as they leaped up the chimney, and listening to the purr of the sleeping cat by her side. But this is the modern age and grandmother must whop it up a bit.
"Because of medical progress and better health services people today are living longer than formerly," says Miss Bowers. "Before long we are going to have a tremendous population of old people. They will have leisure time on their hands. Recreation must meet the challenge by teaching them to play."
Most persons have the wrong idea about what constitutes recreation, Miss Bowers pointed out. They think of it in terms of athletics—football and basketball and similar sports. As a matter of fact, it includes music, dramatics, handicraft, clubwork and games of all kinds.
"Recreation is a well-balanced and satisfying program which prepares one to use his leisure time to the best advantage," she said.
She added that one of the fundamental points in her program is co-operation. Her theory is that young men and women are going to spend many leisure hours together. If you don't give them skills and hobbies such as swimming, tennis, roller skating and other social recreation, they'll find something else to do—possibly something less desirable, she reasons.
Save Athletics.
Another part of her program, Miss Bowers explained, is to provide sane athletics for girls and women. She recommends playing for fun rather than playing only to win. She wants to see all girls "womanly women."
She frowns on the idea of having girls dressed in flashy, abbreviated costumes playing before thousands of spectators beneath the floodlights. It is much better she says, for them to have their own playgrounds and participate in group or family recreation. Neighborhood and family recreation is particularly important, she says.
"It is also important that women be in charge of women's athletics," she continued. "Gradually, we are getting away from men's rules in our games and eliminating men coaches."
Education for leisure time is just as important as education for a job, the recreation leader emphasized. Clubs and churches and all types of organizations are coming to realize this, she said.
The training institute will continue through tomorrow. Last night she gave a demonstration of social recreation activities suitable for mixed groups of young people or adults. Another session will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Henry Grady gymnasium. Sessions also will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Central Y. M. C. A. auditorium and again at the same hour tomorrow. Afternoon meetings will be held for negro leaders from 3 to 5 o'clock at University Homes auditorium.

FEDERAL PLAYERS
GIVE TWO PLAYS

Present 'Androcles and the Lion' and 'The Man of Destiny' at Erlanger.

Two men with whiskers were the show at the Erlanger theater last night. They weren't listed in the cast. They didn't appear on the stage. They weren't even at the theater but they were paramount in the imagination of the audience.

One was the funny little Englishman who deals in satire—Bernard Shaw who wrote a play called "Androcles and the Lion" and another entitled "The Man of Destiny." The other was a tall, kindly man who peels off greenbacks for the men and women who read these lines in the Federal Theater's production of the dramas.

"Man of Destiny" was presented first. Dopey it drug to conclusion, making Napoleon appear to have checked his ambition and fire at the stage door. There was a pretty little newcomer, Moore Noble, whose beauty compensated a bit for her lack of conviction when she attempted to tempt the "Man of Destiny."

Then came the satire on religion. The lion was most amusing, especially when you got a good look at his bagging haunches and his moth-eaten mane. There are some good laughs and some good scenes. —LEE ROGERS.

MOVIE ON FORESTRY
FILMED IN GEORGIA

U. S. Seeks To Aid Owners and Teach Protection of Wooded Areas.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
WAYCROSS, Ga., March 15.—The filming of a feature educational motion picture on forestry, the first sound film of its kind ever made entirely in the south, has been in progress in Waycross the past week.
Produced by the United States

Forest Service, the film is designed to help small landowners with their forest problems. Among the more important phases stressed in the film is the protection of forests, fences and other farm property from damage by forest fire through proper construction of firebreaks and other protective methods.

In addition to outlining methods of protection from fire, the film will show the importance of the protection of forest land by showing difference in growth rate on burned and unburned woods, and also increased value of forest products from unburned woodlands.

Production of the film is being directed by W. Allen Luey, of tion pictures for the United States Washington, D. C., director of mo-

Forest Service, assisted by Clint Davis, of Atlanta, and Bill Branch, technical director. Arrangements for subjects in the Waycross area have been handled by J. S. Elkins, secretary of the Slash Pine Forestry Association, who is co-operating in the production of the film.

GARDENAS OFFERS OIL SEIZURE PLAN

President's Solution of $400,000,000 Expropriation Not Disclosed.

MEXICO CITY, March 15.—(AP) President Lazaro Cardenas today advanced a plan of his own for settlement of the problem growing out of Mexico's expropriation last March 18 of $400,000,000 worth of British and American-owned oil properties.

Cardenas presented the plan to Donald R. Richberg, representative of British and American companies, at their fifth conference. Details were not disclosed.

DOUGLAS ASSAILS EXCHANGES' REPORT

Recommendation for Easing U. S. Regulation Called 'Phoney' by SEC Chief.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) Sharply criticizing the recommendation of 16 exchanges for relaxation of federal regulation, SEC Chairman William O. Douglas tonight brought momentarily to a close the era of good feeling between the Securities Commission and the New York Stock Exchange.

He told reporters that the recommendation was "a phoney" and made it clear that the commission would fight to the last ditch to defend the status quo of present federal securities legislation.

His attack on the report of the committee of exchanges was similar in tone to his statement of November, 1937, in which he directed the New York exchange to clean house or face stricter SEC supervision.

The report was formulated by a committee headed by John Hancock, partner in the New York Stock Exchange firm of Lehman Brothers. It urged the commission to define more clearly the difference between what an exchange spokesman termed "good" and "bad" manipulation. It also urged simplification of reports to the SEC and more freedom of trading for corporation officials and directors.

Such steps, it said, would result in a freer flow of needed capital into the securities markets.

CUSTER 'SURVIVOR' DIES IN 92D YEAR

Major Benton Had Lent General His Horse.

YONKERS, N. Y., March 15.—(AP)—Major Charles A. Benton, 91, who rode as an honor guard in President Lincoln's funeral cortege and served with General Custer in the Indian wars, died today.

After serving in the Civil War he won his commission with General Custer's cavalry.

Custer and 276 men were massacred by Indians under Chief Sitting Bull at the battle of the Little Big Horn in June, 1876. Benton, convalescing from a head wound, had loaned Custer his horse for the campaign.

He was one of the two last surviving members of Lafayette Post, G. A. R., in New York city.

ATLANTA IS NAMED TO AID RAIL PROBE

Traffic League Authorizes Group To Work With Commissions.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 15.—(AP)—The Southern Traffic League today authorized a special committee to work with railroad commissions of southern states in obtaining an investigation of class rates in the south.

The league asked specifically that the investigation be made by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

President Joseph H. Donnell, of Tampa, Fla., appointed J. T. Ryan, of High Point, N. C., as chairman of the committee. Other members named were E. L. Hart, traffic manager of the Atlanta Freight Bureau; W. S. Creighton, of Charlotte, N. C., traffic manager of the Shippers' and Manufacturers' Association of Charlotte; and T. M. Henderson, of Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary of the league and commissioner of the Nashville Traffic Bureau.

Transportation, agricultural, commercial and industrial representatives from the Carolinas, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Virginia were here for the combined meeting of the league and the Southeast Shippers' Advisory Board.

While considering national affairs, the league opposed by resolution the appointment of Thomas R. Amlie as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and notified all southern senators of its act.

RAIN FAILS TO HALT EVERGLADES FIRE

Greatest Florida Blaze Ravages 96,000 Acres.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—A series of heavy showers swept along the coast today but they failed to reach the great muck fire burning in the everglades about 20 miles west of here.

The blaze, greatest in white men's history in the state, was estimated to have ravaged 96,000 acres of rich soil. With the water level now below the depth of the muck, it roared onward, throwing a vast column of smoke into the air.

In the everglades fires the muck soil itself burns, often through its complete depth ranging from a few inches to 18 feet or more. A fire will not burn below the water level, but a serious deficiency in rainfall has made the everglades drier than ever before known.

THREE MEN KILLED IN CRASH OF PLANE

Low-Flying Craft Falls at Inverness, Florida.

OCALA, Fla., March 15.—(UP)—An airplane crash at Inverness, Fla., late today resulted in the death of three men.

The men were identified as Barnett Chepuk, about 40, pilot of the plane; Elbert Thompson, about 35, manager of the San Marco theater in Jacksonville; and Chris Selas, about 25, manager of a Jacksonville shoe store.

Witnesses report the plane was flying low as it attempted to land when it nosed over and crashed. Thompson was killed almost instantly, and the other two died after arriving at an Ocala hospital.

SUPPORT OF NAVY GIVEN SHIP CANAL

Florida Project Would Be of Definite Value, Edison Says.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) The Florida ship canal, subject of a spirited debate before the senate commerce committee, won support today from the navy.

Assistant Secretary Charles Edison, replying to a letter from Chairman Mansfield, Democrat, Texas, of the house rivers and harbors committee, said the canal "would be of definite value during the war."

Importance of the $200,000,000 canal in the national defense has been one major point of the long controversy, revived early this year when President Roosevelt urged the waterway's completion.

"It is the opinion of the Navy Department," wrote Edison, "that by shortening the distance and providing an additional route for seagoing vessels between the Atlantic ocean and the Gulf of Mexico, the Atlantic-Gulf ship canal would be of definite value during war."

Representatives Caldwell, Hendricks and Green, Florida Democrats, urged the canal as safe, sound and urgently needed. Green charged railroads originated the fear of south Floridians about possible damage to the peninsula's supply of fresh water.

Representative Peterson, Democrat, Florida, said he shared the fears of many growers that the canal would injure underground streams, and declared time savings to speedy vessels which now go around the straits would be negligible.

Representative Cannon, Democrat, Florida, warned the committee against recommending "a useless canal to appease the whims of a minority of the state of Florida." He declared the project was dangerous, unsound, and "ridiculous."

ARMED BANDITS ROB TWO LIQUOR STORES

Victim and Customer Forced to Floor at One; Operator Hit at Another.

Liquor store bandits struck at two establishments last night. At one, the bandits hit their victim on the head with the butt of a pistol. At the other, the thugs forced the victim and a customer to lie on the floor.

The bandits escaped with a total of $166 cash.

J. L. Johnson, manager of a liquor store of "Brown's Buffet," at Peachtree and Currier streets—an establishment that was held up a few months ago—told police that a white man "poked his head in the door and asked for 'Jimmy.'"

Johnson told him "Jimmy" was not there. The man went across the street. A few minutes later, a negro entered, pointed a pistol at Johnson and ordered him to lie down.

The bandit took $13 from Johnson's pockets and $93 from the cash register. A customer, E. W. Brown, of 552 West Peachtree street, entered at that point and the bandit made him sprawl beside Johnson. He did not molest Brown, however. The negro then fled.

The other holdup occurred when two white men entered a store at 233 Peters street. One drew a pistol and ordered the other to lie down.

COTTON RELEASE PLAN DRAWN UP

Premium for Loan Withdrawal, Export Subsidy Provided in Proposal.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) An Agriculture Department official said tonight that the administration expected to announce within a few days a proposal to make American cotton available to foreign buyers at prices competitive with cotton produced in other countries.

Details were said to have been virtually agreed upon at a White House conference today attended by Secretary Wallace, R. M. Evans, agricultural adjustment administrator, and other department officials.

The proposal, which would require no congressional action, would have two major provisions: Payment of a premium to farmer-borrowers for withdrawing upwards of a million bales of cotton from storage as collateral for government loans; and payment of a subsidy to exporters which would enable them to meet prices of other cotton in world markets.

Funds to finance the program were said to be available. The official said the first provision was necessary because of a shortage of cotton in regular market channels. More than 11,250,000 bales are held as security for loans.

The official said the State Department, while opposed to subsidization of exports, had agreed not to oppose the contemplated program because of the "emergency situation" said to be developing in the cotton markets.

That situation was said to be a virtual stoppage of foreign buying of American cotton, because of artificially high prices and inadequate supplies. Exports for the season are about 48 per cent below a year ago.

MEDICAL COMMITTEE NAMED BY RED CROSS

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) Chairman Norman H. Davis, of the Red Cross, announced today creation of a medical advisory committee headed by Dr. Livingston Farrand, of New York. Dr. Farrand was Red Cross chairman from 1919 to 1921.

Other committee members are Dr. Thomas Farran, surgeon general; Dr. Waller S. Leathers, dean of the Vanderbilt University Medical school; Dr. David P. Barr, professor of medicine at Washington University, St. Louis; Dr. Martha N. Eliot, assistant chief of the children's bureau; Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, surgeon general of the navy; Major General Charles R. Reynolds, surgeon general of the army; and Dr. Edwards A. Parks, pediatrician-in-chief of Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore.

MIDWEST GRIPPED IN SEVEREST SNOW STORM OF WINTER

40-Mile Wind Drives White Blanket Into 10- Foot Drifts, Stalling Trains, Blocking Roads.

MILWAUKEE, March 14.—(AP)—The season's severest snowstorm, driven by a 40-mile wind, swirled across the northern sections of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan today, leaving four dead and

Everyone in Town To Be a Policeman

MINTO, Alaska, March 15.—(AP)—Because the nearest white man's law is 30 blizzard-swept miles away at Menana, natives of this interior Alaska Indian village petitioned Uncle Sam to make every man his own policeman. The main purpose, they say, is to curb intoxication.

Ralph J. Rivers, district attorney at Fairbanks, told the Indians the law stated any citizen could make an arrest under certain conditions.

The Indians said they were going to try it.

disrupting automobile and rail traffic.

In the Lake Superior district, the wind whipped snowfall of 10 to 14 inches into 10-foot drifts, stalling two of the finest north country trains. The temperature was near zero.

Records fell with the snow. At Calumet, on upper Michigan's northernmost peninsula, 13 inches of snow brought the winter's unprecedented total to 197 inches.

Another new mark was recorded at Superior, Wis., where the total reached 81 inches for the season. Plows made little headway against the drifts on most secondary and some principal highways.

Schools in parts of northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan remained closed for the second consecutive day because school buses were unable to leave main line roads.

A relief train was prepared to carry hot food to a score of passengers of the North Western railroad's iron and copper country express, marooned in a drift near Negaunee, Mich. The North Western's Ashland Express, which left Milwaukee at 8:15 p. m. yesterday, reached Ironwood, Mich., this afternoon after being stalled in snow near the Wisconsin border for six hours.

Travelers on a Milwaukee road train were forced to stop over at Champion, Mich., when trains of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic, to which they had planned to transfer, were canceled.

Two men were killed in a truck-bus collision on icy roads near Litchfield, Minn. A 17-year-old girl was injured fatally near Stevens Point, in central Wisconsin, when a car skidded against a truck, and a railway switchman was killed by a train at Minneapolis during the storm.

PROGRESS REPORTED IN BUSINESS RELIEF

Senator Harrison Says Elimination of Some Taxes Possible.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, reported progress today in conversations aimed at lifting some of the multiple taxes from business without decreasing the government's revenues.

After a conference with the White House, the senator said it was his opinion that if some of the taxes now imposed on business were eliminated, the increased income taxes on corporations that would follow would not carry the maximum to more than 22 per cent.

This compares with a present maximum of 19 per cent.

This estimate, he emphasized, was based on the suggestions from some quarters that the capital stocks, excess profits and undistributed profits taxes be abandoned and a flat income tax on corporations substituted in their stead.

There is general agreement among government officials, Harrison said, that there can be no reduction in the gross intake from taxes. This position was strengthened by treasury estimates today that income tax collections this month would fall far short of those in March, 1938.

While treasury officials said they would have no definite figures for several days, budget experts predicted earlier that $425,000,000 would be collected this month compared with $723,000,000 for the same month last year.

The decrease was attributed to the business downturn of 1938, when sales and profits dropped considerably below 1937.

GEORGIA WOMAN UNCOVERS A CURE

The mice that got the double protection survived while their brothers were carried off to the laboratory incinerator.

"Word of this got out to Galinger hospital, that ancient and dilapidated Washington brick pile where the charity cases go. Staff doctors decided to translate Brannham's animal work to human beings.

"A deathly ill youngster came first. Two days after a long, wicked needle had carried serum into his spinal cord and so, stubby needle had carried sulfanilamide into his bloodstream, he was sitting up in bed, apparently well.

"Other men, women and children followed. Dr. Brannham's new technique was used on 20 patients. Statistics would have sentenced at least five of these people to death. In actual fact only one died."

Who is this woman?—of whom Ratcliff also wrote: "You keep thinking of her in another setting: At the Saturday-night dance of a southern country club."

As a matter of fact, the heritage of Dr. Brannham, medical research worker of the United States Public Health Service, whose skill has helped unmask that fright of all diseases, meningitis, is southern.

She was born in Oxford, Ga., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. June Brannham. She went to Wesleyan College in Macon, the first chartered woman's college in the world, where her classmates included the two celebrated Soong sisters, of China, and Mrs. Dan M. Byrd and Mrs. Malcolm Dewey, Atlanta friends, whom she visits frequently.

Next, this brilliant woman taught biology in an Atlanta high school.

A chance trip to the west proved to be the turning point in the career which has led her into one of the most responsible positions in the research department of the United States Public Health Service at Washington.

In 1917, she decided to take a summer course at the University of Colorado. Impressed by the keenness of her mind, officials there offered her a position. Most of the available young men were going to war and so for the first time laboratories everywhere were turning to women to carry on their work.

After both teaching and taking a degree at Colorado, she continued her medical studies at the University of Chicago. There she began a seven-year period of research in an effort to isolate the influenza germ, which had caused so much havoc. Although she later was forced to abandon the task, it was her preliminary findings which paved the way for the ultimate success of other scientists.

The call which took her away from her work on influenza was from the United States Public Health Service. That was in 1928. A new disease which apparently started in the Orient and had just appeared in California. War-time victims had no effect whatever and victims were dying by the hundreds.

In response to a telegram from Dr. George McCoy, director of the National Institute of Public Health, she agreed to try to find the new microbe which was causing the fatal attacks of meningitis.

The task was complicated by the fact that the disease could be caused by any one of a dozen or more different types of germs. But she began to work in an effort to discover a serum which would be effective in any kind of case. In so doing she collected more information of the subject than anyone else had ever compiled.

Her success, first with the mice and then with human beings, followed. At present Dr. Brannham is still hard at work in the pink limestone building near the banks of the historic Potomac, going about her tasks with the zeal of a crusader.

Still interested in her alma mater, Dr. Brannham is an alumnae trustee of the institution, and in 1936 attended the centennial celebration in Decatur.

Tax Books of City Officially Closed

No extension of the deadline for making 1939 tax returns will be granted, city tax assessors said last night as they officially closed the tax books.

The tax officials pointed out that taxpayers had been given a month and a half in which to make their returns and that a great number of them had waited until the last minute. The books opened February 1.

Hundreds of Atlantans crowded into the city hall yesterday as the deadline neared. Those making returns after the deadline are subject to a penalty.

COMPROMISE RELIEF PLAN IS INDICATED

tive Cox, Democrat, Georgia, of the economy bloc, calling for a thorough investigation of WPA by the house appropriations committee. It was a resolution by Representative Healey, Democrat, Massachusetts, that the mayors of cities and officials of towns of more than 5,000 be polled on their relief needs; and the extent of unemployment in their localities.

Local Attitudes. Mayors and local officials with a eye to municipal finances, have consistently advocated large federal relief appropriations.

Representative Taber, Republican, New York, declared that if WPA made cuts in the rolls, the most needy people would be dropped. The purpose, he said, would be to put "pressure on congress."

"They have done such things as let out widows in Ohio, and they have done that in New York and other places instead of letting out the political hacks," Taber said.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 15.—(AP)—A movement to install daylight saving time in Columbus from April 30 to September 24 has been inaugurated by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Officials stated many citizens had endorsed the movement.

NAVAL COMMAND SHIFTS ANNOUNCED
Admirals Leahy and Harry E. Yarnall Will Be Replaced.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(AP) The navy announced tonight the selection of Rear Admiral Harold R. Stark, 59-year-old Pennsylvanian, as the new chief of operations, top post of the sea service. With President Roosevelt's approval, a dozen other assignments were made at the same time in an annual shift of the high command. Most of the changes take effect in June.

Stark will succeed Admiral William D. Leahy, who is to retire June 1 on reaching the statutory age limit of 64.

Precedent was set aside in the selection of Captain John Henry Towers, whom fellow officers call "the navy's No. 1 aviator," as chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics. Towers at one time was passed over for promotion and faced the possibility of involuntary retirement.

Other selections: Rear Admiral Thomas Charles Hart, chairman of the general board, to be commander of the Asiatic fleet with the rank of full admiral. He will relieve Admiral Harry E. Yarnall, who retires in October.

Rear Admiral James O. Richardson, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, to be commander of the fleet battle force, with rank of admiral. The present commander, Admiral Edward C. Kalbfus, was made president of the Naval War College, Newport, R. I.

Rear Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of battleship Division One, to be chief of the Bureau of Navigation.

Rear Admiral Charles Philip Snyder, president of the War College, to be commander of battle force battalions, with rank of vice admiral.

Vice Admiral John Wills Greenslade, whom Snyder relieves, to be a member of the general board.

Rear Admiral Charles Adams Blakely, commander of scouting force aircraft, to be commander of battle force aircraft with rank of vice admiral.

Vice Admiral Ernest J. King, now commander of battle force aircraft, transferred to general board.

Rear Admiral Arthur B. Cook, Aeronautics Bureau chief, named to command scouting force aircraft.

Students Given Prize in Miniature House Contest

Constitution Staff Photo—Wilson.

When the sixth grade of the Davis Street school visited The Constitution's home show Wednesday morning it was surprised to receive a pretty engraved silver cup for the excellence of its work in winning first prize in the miniature house contest. It was presented by Fred C. Hale, secretary of the Atlanta Lumber and Building Supply Association. Mr. Hale was chairman of the committee of judges, and is handing the cup to Jeanne Pritchard for the class. Little Miss Pritchard was a main cog in building the winning home, even though the cup is engraved with the names of Leon Lively, Grady Farmer, James Houze and Lamar Mosely. On the left is Miss Charlotte Smith, art supervisor; on the right, Miss Gladys Pratt, the teacher.

Winter To Get In Last Licks Today

A belated touch of winter is due here this morning, the United States Weather Bureau reported last night, predicting fair and colder weather. A low of 38 degrees is expected this morning.

The cold, weather bureau officials said, is drifting down from the Great Lakes region, where snowstorms, and other deep winter phenomena were the order of the day yesterday. A bright sun, however, is expected to moderate the effect of the cold air, and send thermometer up into the fifties during the afternoon. Yesterday's high and low were 68 and 54 degrees.

CHILDREN THROG HOME EXPOSITION

their teachers, became so interested in the miniature house contest, sponsored by the exposition.

Since the show opened dozens of school classes have visited the city auditorium each morning and have leisurely strolled through the building admiring the exhibits, marveling at the floral display, and particularly glowing over the novel work of hundreds of their schoolmates who had erected so many of the little cut-out homes on display. These classes will continue to come each morning for a half hour's visit each, as per schedule arranged by Miss Charlotte Smith, art supervisor of the school system.

Wednesday morning there was quite a little surprise for one of the classes. They came from the Davis Street school, about 30 strong—the sixth grade. It was the work of a number of the little students in this grade that won the first prize in the contest from the elementary grades. They erected a little Spanish house that more than caught the attention of the judges.

As a result, in addition to giving them the first prize at the show, Fred C. Hale, secretary of the Atlanta Lumber and Building Supply Association, who was chairman of the committee of judges, presented the class on Wednesday morning, as it visited the exposition, a pretty engraved silver cup for the excellence of its work in winning first prize in the miniature house contest. It was presented by Fred C. Hale, secretary of the Atlanta Lumber and Building Supply Association. Mr. Hale was chairman of the committee of judges, and is handing the cup to Jeanne Pritchard for the class. Little Miss Pritchard was a main cog in building the winning home, even though the cup is engraved with the names of Leon Lively, Grady Farmer, James Houze and Lamar Mosely. On the left is Miss Charlotte Smith, art supervisor; on the right, Miss Gladys Pratt, the teacher.

Mr. Hale made a brief talk to the class. Speaking afterward about the award he said: "Considering the age of the contestants in the Davis Street school the model is outstanding. The ingenuity shown in the design and the type of workmanship makes it exceptional. The first prize of the senior high showed craftsmanship at its best. But the elementary group from all schools, taking their ages into consideration, built outstanding models. It was a pleasure to acknowledge, with the cup presented, the exceptional work and model of the Davis Street school."

Wednesday night's attendance at the show was even larger than Tuesday night's, and each day the exposition is drawing more and more visitors. It will continue until Saturday night. In addition to the splendid exhibits, where valuable information concerning the many things that add comfort and convenience to a home can be secured by visitors, the music and entertainment, the beautiful flowers and decorations give a colorful and spectacular presentation to the show.

The chief interest, perhaps, centers in the cozy cottage on the stage. Several sealed bids have already been handed in to Director Foster B. Steward. The house is to go to the highest bidder, and its sale will include a pretty shady lot in Chelsea Heights, an attractive subdivision just off Ponce de Leon. At the time of its permanent erection the house will be substantially built under the rigid rules and supervision of the F.H.A. The Federal Housing Administration has issued a commitment in the $6,000 field as a loan to the successful bidder, provided the credit rating can be successfully passed. Only 10 per cent of the successful bidder's offer will have to be paid in cash. It is understood, with long-term payments on the balance.

ELONGATED GEORGIA BOOMED BY CHAPMAN

ATHENS, Ga., March 15.—(AP)—Dr. Paul W. Chapman, dean of University of Georgia's College of Agriculture, today inadvertently added 700 verbal miles to the length of the state of Georgia.

Dean Chapman, a featured speaker on the Farm and Home program, was painting a word picture of Georgia when the slip of the tongue occurred.

"Georgia," said the dean, "is about 1,200 miles long." What he meant to say was 500 miles, the distance from the tip end of Dade county, on the Tennessee line, to St. Mary's, on the Florida line.

LEGION HEAD WARNS OF UNEMPLOYMENT

Chadwick Says Solution of Problems Is Patriotic Duty.

CHICAGO, March 15.—(AP)—National Commander Stephen F. Chadwick, of the American Legion, said tonight its members consider it a patriotic duty to help solve unemployment problems. In a broadcast address celebrating the Legion's 20th anniversary, he declared:

"We cannot long be boastful of the success of our democracy if millions of our people are permitted, over long periods of time, to be without gainful employment." He denounced religious and racial intolerance as "unworthy of the spirit of free men" and urged keeping the national defense "each year and every day at a peak of efficiency."

Forest service officials estimate that 61 per cent of all trees planted in farm shelter belts and field wind breaks of the prairie plains last year survived.

Clay Returns From South America, Reports Friendliness Toward U. S.

Docking in New Jersey, Atlanta Banker Declares Influence of Totalitarian Powers Is on the Decline; Flies Here Saturday.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

HOBOKEN, N. J., March 15.—A feeling of extreme friendliness toward President Roosevelt on the part of the South American people was the chief impression Ryburn G. Clay, president of the Fulton National Bank of Atlanta, brought back with him this morning when he returned from a cruise on the liner Stetendam. He was accompanied by Mrs. Clay.

"There is a much warmer feeling toward the President and the American people in South America today than was apparent during my visit a year ago," Mr. Clay said. "I attribute the change for the most part to the good will created by the Lima conference, which I regarded as the most successful conference that has ever been held, particularly as to commerce."

In Mr. Clay's opinion the recent commercial and financial agreements between Brazil and the United States would result in an improved trade not only between the two countries but between the United States and all other South American governments.

"Business is definitely on the upswing in South America," he said, "particularly in Venezuela and Curacao. The American dollar is good for a dollar except in Venezuela. There it is worth only 50 cents as Venezuela is still on the gold standard."

Mr. Clay said he believed the influence of the totalitarian states in South America was on the decline. "The trend is against Nazism and Fascism," he said, "because the people are depending more and more on the United States for advice and assistance. More and more the inclination is to buy United States goods. The people there are beginning to feel they can rely on us in an emergency and I believe the maneuvers of our fleet, which we watched during this trip, was a demonstration to South America of what we could do should a crisis arise." During the voyage, Mr. and Mrs. Clay, who sailed February 25, visited Puerto Rico, Trinidad, Barbados, Laguardia, the Canal Zone, Jamaica, Port-au-Spain and Havana. They will remain in New York until Saturday when they will leave by plane for Atlanta.

FINDS HIS BROTHERS AFTER LONG ABSENCE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 15.—(AP)—Two brothers, each believing the other dead, met for the first time in 39 years today when Robert Patrick Doyle, 61, who left Louisville in 1900, walked into the home of his brother, William Thomas Doyle, 64, a distillery employee.

"I came back to see if they were dead," Robert Doyle said. He learned that a third brother, Dan Doyle, now lives in Miami Beach, Florida.

Most everyone, the sea's thrilling S. O. S. means "Help is needed now!" That's the same message Nature often tries to convey by means of headaches, biliousness, dullness, coated tongue or bad breath, which are common signs of constipation.

Disregard of these warnings may bring on a host of constipation's other discomforts: sour stomach, belching, loss of appetite or energy, mental dullness. Don't neglect your very important bowels. When symptoms indicate a laxative is needed, take a little spicy, aromatic, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. It acts gently by simple directions; cleanses as thoroughly as the harsher ones. BLACK-DRAUGHT's unusual help, it is believed, comes from its principal ingredient which has high medicinal recognition as "an intestinal tonic-laxative." It helps make the bowels act better by imparting tone to their lazy muscles. Its long life and the millions of packages used, bespeak your confidence in BLACK-DRAUGHT. Try it next time a laxative is needed. Economical, too. 25 to 40 doses 25¢.—(adv.)

Hitler's Secret Hiding Place Revealed

Elevator Inside Mountain Takes Der Fuehrer 300 Feet Up to Seclusion Among the Clouds.

Adolf Hitler, who always has liked to get away from it all, has a new retreat. It is kept a secret from the great majority of Germans. Even some of Der Fuehrer's best friends haven't seen it. The few photographs that have been taken of it are locked in a Nazi vault. In this story the chief of the Associated Press Berlin bureau describes that retreat and tells why it was built.

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER.
BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, March 15.—(P)—Adolf Hitler can rise above the clouds whenever he wants to.

He has had constructed for himself an aerial hideaway which no other living human being can boast of.

A tea house, perched upon a mountain top and accessible—except for chamois—only by an elevator on the inside of the Kehlstein mountain, affords the Fuehrer of Germany an opportunity to enjoy absolute solitude in a cloudless sky.

Here's the story of one of the most ingenious hideaways ever constructed.

Before Adolf Hitler came into power in January, 1933, his summer home in the Bavarian Alps, about five miles above Berchtesgaden, on a slope of the Obersalzberg, gave him the seclusion and quiet he craves as an offset to noisy "heils," tramping feet, and trumpets' blast.

Even then, any trained observer could foresee the end of seclusion in that spot. The writer recalls traveling to the Obersalzberg in August, 1932, and finding to his surprise that a simple Bavarian mountain restaurant, affording 300 yards up the road was peopled with ardent Nazis who trained their spy glasses on the house below in the hope of catching a glimpse of Der Fuehrer.

No sooner had Hitler become chancellor than the Berghof, as the Obersalzberg chalet is called, became the Mecca for disciples of national socialism. Hitler simply had to come out on the veranda from time to time to salute the masses fringing the roadside.

Moreover, the "Berghof" had to be enlarged for visits of statesmen and party leaders summoned by the chief of state. The solitude of the Berchtesgaden retreat was gone.

Hitler next discovered a little tea house some distance away from his home. Here he would often go in the afternoon to relax. But this retreat, too, was soon discovered.

Then one of his closest collaborators suggested that the top of the Kehlstein would provide exactly what the Fuehrer wanted—a retreat inaccessible to the crowd and bathed in sunshine at times when the "Berghof" was wrapped in gray clouds.

The Kehlstein, steep and abrupt, defied road building. Only chamois could climb up its giddy slopes. But an engineer with imagination found a way to approach the top—by elevator.

This necessitated construction of a tunnel 500 feet long into the Kehlstein. Shortly after leaving the "Berghof," Hitler and his few trusted lieutenants entered this closely guarded tunnel. The entrance is protected by two huge bronze doors which swing open to admit Hitler's car.

Seven Minutes Up.
The elevator rises slowly up a shaft 300 feet high. A man who accompanied Crown Prince Michael, of Rumania, on his elevator ride to the top found that the ascent took exactly seven minutes.

At the summit, the elevator doors open to a marvelous view of snow-capped mountains round about, of green meadows far below, and of Hitler's "Berghof" nestling like a little toy house far, far down.

A simple tea house, built against a huge rock, is constructed in the same Bavarian peasant style as the buildings generally in this part of Germany.

A glass-encased veranda on three sides—to the east, south and west—allows practically continuous sunshine until sundown. This fact gave rise to the legend that Hitler's aeris was perched on a turntable and could be turned toward the sun wherever he might be.

The house consists of three parts—a small kitchenette, a lavatory and a large living room. In this retreat Der Fuehrer at last has the perfect solitude that he craves for thinking about problems of state.

Few Know About It.
Only on the rarest occasions is any foreigner invited up to this perch. The first thus honored was the departing French ambassador, Andre Francois-Poncet. He clicked well with Hitler. Hence, as a mark of special honor, the Fuehrer took him personally to his retreat on October 18, 1938, for a last conference on German-French relations.

The second foreigner was Crown

Adolf Hitler is pictured on the porch of the Berghof, near the mountain stop which he has built a secret retreat, inaccessible to any except the favored few Der Fuehrer wishes there. An artist's conception of the new hideaway is shown at the right, with the large iron doors in the side of the mountain, giving the entrance to an elevator which takes him up 300 feet to the mountain top, where he finds perfect seclusion.

Prince Michael. While his father, King Carol, was conferring at the "Berghof" with Adolf Hitler on November 24, 1938, the young man was taken up to the top of the Kehlstein for tea.

So small is the number of those who have been on the top that even Captain Fritz Wiedemann (Hitler's close associate, who recently was named consul general at San Francisco) confessed he had never been on the Kehlstein.

The general public knows nothing about the retreat. No publicity has been given it. The few pictures that have been taken are locked up in the secret archives of Hitler's personal photographer and official cameraman for the Nazi movement, Professor Heinrich Hoffmann, of Munich.

HITLER FOLLOWS ARMY INTO PRAGUE

threw snow balls at armored cars as they rolled into the city.

A platoon of Czech police kept the crowds in St. Wenceslas square from springing at three armored cars and their embarrassed operators.

World War Legionnaires who fought for Czech independence under the leadership of the late Thomas Masaryk and his aide, Eduard Benes, wept without shame, and so did their women. Cries of "pfui! pfui!—go back home" were heard.

German residents, however, provided some cheering for the conquerors.

The Czechs did not know exactly what sort of government they were to have, but they were acutely conscious of the fact that Hitler's troops had occupied the whole of their cherished Bohemia and Moravia.

Name Henlein, Buerckel.
Bohemia was placed under military rule by General Johannes Blaskowitz, commander of Group 3 of the German army, and General Blaskowitz appointed Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten Nazi leader, to be chief of Bohemia's civil administration.

Moravia's executive power was placed in the hands of General Wilhelm List, commander of the fifth army group stationed in Vienna, and Moravian civil administration was vested in Joseph Buerckel, Hitler's commissioner in Austria.

On the heels of the German army, which crossed the borders at 6 a. m., came the Gestapo, efficient German secret police. A number of arrests were reported to have been made.

Several leading Czech political figures, among them General Jan Syrový, one-eyed army idol and World War hero who for a time was premier of the republic in last September's crisis, were reported to have fled the country.

Among those reported arrested—but this could not be verified—was F. Hajek, former personal press representative of President Benes, pillar of the republic who resigned after Munich and now is a university professor in the United States.

Jews in Hiding.
Thousands of Jews and German political emigres were in hiding because they did not want to be seen in public and could not get across the frontiers, which were closed to traffic going both ways.

Germany's absorption of Bohemia and Moravia was the final smashing blow crushing out the life of the battered World War-born republic. Yesterday Slovakia, under German pressure, declared itself independent of Prague, and the eastern province, autonomous Carpatho-Ukraine, fell prey to invading Hungarian army troops.

Today Slovakia was a German vassal, and Carpatho-Ukraine was beginning to take orders from Hungarian military leaders, who acted with Germany's approval.

Arrives in Snowstorm.
Escorted by a motor squadron, Hitler made his entry into Prague by a road direct from Boehmisch Leipa, about 40 miles north of the Czech capital.

The journey was made in a dense snowstorm which continued after the Fuehrer had taken up his headquarters in ancient Hradcany castle.

Hitler was surrounded by a large retinue of Nazi leaders. They included General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, Quartermaster General Heinrich von Stuelpnagel, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Police Head Heinrich Himmler and others.

A German motorized detachment occupied the square in front of the castle. On his way to Prague Hitler passed some of his regiments push-

No Public Highways, But Jeykl Must Pay

Jekyl Island, exclusive recreational domain of Brunswick, is a part of Georgia—and so residents must buy state automobile tags.

This ruling was made yesterday by Attorney General Ellis Arnall, who held that vehicles operated on the island were not excepted from the general law "merely because Jekyl Island is a privately owned property and there are no public highways maintained by the state."

Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head asked the ruling when residents declined to buy tags, on grounds the state did not maintain roads.

ing doggedly through the snowstorm.

Close Theaters.

These were among the measures put into effect swiftly today as the Czechs were placed under German rule.

Prohibition of all meetings and closing of all motion picture theaters until further notice. A curfew forbidding anyone without a pass to appear in the streets after 9 p. m. and ordering bars and restaurants closed at that hour.

Seizure of the Witkowitz Iron Works (in which British capital is invested) and a number of Czech industries.

Orders to treat with severity any sabotage or disrespect of the Nazi swastika.

Patrolling of the streets by the German military and Czech gendarmes and police.

Beginning of disarmament of the Czech army.

Steel-helmeted German soldiers were stationed before the doors of the capital's leading hotels, where German officers took up quarters.

Another noteworthy change in the city's life was a switch in the tone of the newspapers. Gone was any trace of recent recrimination against Germany, and criticism of any sort was absent.

The Prager Tagblatt, Prague's only German language newspaper, which had had Jewish backing, was taken over by Gentile members of the staff. The Jewish staff members went into hiding.

The hoarding of food and clothing increased because of shortage and because of fears of higher prices.

With the occupation of Prague General Von Gablenz was placed in command of the city. He established headquarters in the Czech army barracks.

Other parts of Bohemia and Moravia were occupied simultaneously. Igau, where there is a large German occupation, was taken over at 1 p. m. Brunn had been occupied an hour earlier.

Prague's military commanders paid a courtesy visit to Karl Havelka, minister of propaganda in the resigned Czech cabinet of Premier Rudolph Benes.

The German troops were met at the city's edge by representatives of the German minority and Mayor Klapka.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS LBS. A DAY

Kidneys say your kidneys contain 15 million tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass a pint a day or about 3 pounds of waste. If you have kidney trouble, you may find that passing urine is a painful task. This is because of the accumulation of acids or poisons in your blood, due to functional kidney disorders, may cause of nagging backache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Dea's Kidney Pills. They give happy relief and will help the millions of kidney tubes flush out poisons from your blood. Get Dea's Pills.

JAPAN'S PREDICAMENT

The position of Japan in the Far East cannot be envied today by any nation. Despite the surface indications of an advantageous situation, the Nipponese face a crucial year in which their determination toward an Asiatic hegemony will be strained to the utmost.

Even though the government has adopted the bellicose attitude in the fisheries dispute with Russia, underlying conditions would point to a desperate condition both internally and externally. This, however, cannot be taken as indication of a more reasonable attitude, since it has been demonstrated in several other sections of the world that a military adventure feeds on its own carrion for indefinite period.

In China, the Japanese have been able to consolidate the main lines of conquest in the north to a point where the nominal control of territory is assured. Guerrilla warfare is, however, taking a terrible toll, one which cannot be fully estimated. Unbiased observers report long travels through the ostensibly conquered sections with irregular Chinese troops and the military authorities have admitted excursions of these forces almost to the gates of Shanghai. Actually it appears the Japanese hold the rail lines, the main highways and large cities, but beyond this have only a negligible authority.

The recent effort to impose Japanese controlled currency in the conquered provinces apparently has not made much headway. Official Chinese currency has been sold on the exchanges at a point near that of several weeks ago when the desired change was announced. Considerable support for the Chinese money has been and will be accorded by the western powers in spite of the anger of the Japanese.

In South China, official Japanese reports indicate a stalemate confronting the troops. On several occasions recently navy planes have been forced to bomb towns within 50 miles of Canton. The inference here is that the supply route from French Indo-China remains open and relatively safe despite the extensive effort made to sever it. The only line cut off by the capture of Canton has been the Hongkong route, which is itself nullified by the Indo-China source and the new military road through from British Burma and still another from Soviet Russia. This last has been under heavy air attack for weeks, but the Burma route is relatively secure from serious damage.

In the face of this stalemate on several Chinese fronts, Shanghai and other sources report that the main body of trained soldiers has been transferred northward to Manchoukou in preparation for trouble from Russian Siberia. All that can be expected then in China is a holding of present positions.

In the fisheries dispute with Russia, Japan outwardly holds the upper hand, since the Nipponese navy controls the western Pacific as does the United States navy the eastern Pacific. But there are many counterbalancing factors, not the least of which is the air strength of Russia in the Vladivostok area and the undetermined number of submarines at the strong naval base there. The waters under question are admirably adapted for submarine warfare, and the Soviets have been assembling vast numbers of small craft at Vladivostok for many years. This base is only 650 air miles from Tokyo, a vulnerable city.

It is probable that Japan can proceed along the present path for some few years. If Russia is added to the scales, however, it is difficult to see how the island empire can long withstand the weight of arms.

What is this unnatural calm? Tony Galento hasn't talked a fight in 24 hours. It is days since Ruby Vallee devoured a bus boy.

NO REDUCTION?

In talking with newspapermen on the subject of administration plans to encourage private business, President Roosevelt is reported, by the Associated Press, as having "emphasized that he was determined that existing revenues should not be reduced by any revision of corporation taxes."

If this interpretation of the President's words is correct, and if the statement means what, on the surface, it indicates, it is difficult to see wherein there will be any help for business by the government "appeasement" program, at least in so far as taxes are concerned.

For, if there is to be no reduction, all the readjustments and changes of method in the world will have little effect. It matters not out of which pocket, or by what means, a man's money is taken. It is the amount, in proportion to his total property, that interests the businessman.

The same authority reports that the administration is studying a plan to combine five forms of business taxation into one levy. These are understood to be income, excess profits, undistributed profits, capital stock and social security taxes. Just how this can be accomplished is not clear. If it can it might effect a saving for many businesses by reducing the bookkeeping and questionnaire-filling and report-filling requirements. But that would be all.

It is doubtful if any scheme of taxation, at least within recent times, has been more illogically based than the undistributed profits tax. It has been one of the principal contributing factors to that failure of private industry to expand, which is a large cause of the continuation of unemployment and depression problems in this nation.

It is a tax which has estopped the industrialist from accumulating the funds he must have for expansion. It has penalized the man who would, in wisdom, accumulate a reserve to tide his enterprise over an economic rainy day. It has penalized business thrift and shackled business initiative.

If nothing else is done, the undistributed profits tax should be entirely eliminated. Even though it involves reduced government revenues, the comparatively small loss would, eventually, be many times offset by the resultant increase in national income and the consequently enlarged base for all other tax levies.

THE RELIEF MYSTERY

Factions are forming rapidly, in congress, for a show-down fight on the issue of further, or increased, appropriations for federal relief, through the Works Progress Administration.

President Roosevelt has reiterated his insistence on an additional appropriation of $150,000,000—exactly the amount by which the original request was reduced—and congressmen who are insistent upon curtailment of government spending are girding for a final fight on the problem.

The President, in his latest appeal, declares that 5,000,000 people will face starvation, through loss of WPA jobs, if the requested $150,000,000 is not forthcoming. Inasmuch as this works out to an average of $30 per person, it does not appear that it could, by the wildest imagination, be construed as contributory to any permanent solution.

There is strong sentiment in congress for a complete factual investigation of unemployment and relief. A senate committee, headed by Senator Byrnes, of South Carolina, has already made a report which covers much of this ground. It would only be necessary to take this report, extend its survey where needed, and secure all the information necessary.

That the government cannot continue its program of spending indefinitely without ultimately bringing about national bankruptcy is such simple logic none save fanatic theorists can fail to see it. It is undeniable that all the schemes yet tried have failed completely in development of any permanent solution of the unemployment problem. Federal expenditures have tended to increase, although private employment gains are statistically evidenced. Each year the national debt has grown by leaps and bounds. If the present method of approach to the question is continued, there is no end in sight to the steady march toward a bankrupt nation.

Basically the whole situation reverts back to the chief failure of the system of private capital as it has operated in the United States. The system has, until recent years, succeeded beyond dreams in production of wealth, but it has fallen down in the parallel necessity of distribution of that wealth after it is created.

The advance of technocracy has left many workers, supplanted by machines, bereft of a market for their labor, as a means of sustenance. Until the wealth of the nation, in created things as well as in natural resources, is more equitably distributed, the problem of unemployment will be with us.

Strictest possible economy, based upon reliable factual knowledge of the genuine human need, appears to be the only road open, until such time as the national economy can readjust itself to the changes wrought by the advent of the machine and until better means of distribution can bring about a true, working democracy of economics as well as a perfected political democracy.

ANTI-RADICAL LAWS

(From The Birmingham Age-Herald)

The vigilant Martin Dies has introduced three bills in congress intended to "curb Fascists, Communists and anti-racial and anti-religious organizations." One bill would require these organizations to register semi-annually with the secretary of state, filing the names and addresses of officers, employees, members and contributors. The other bills would prohibit Communists and Fascists from government employment, and would require deportation of alien members of the two organizations.

Whether a law requiring radical organizations to register with the State Department would do much good is questionable. But if the law should be passed and should be upheld by the courts, what would keep truly subversive organizations from giving false information?

As for Communists and Fascists in the government service, it would appear that the present two-party system and civil service should take care of that problem.

If Communist and Fascist aliens are to be deported, who is to decide whether a man is a Communist or a Fascist? What is to be the measuring rod?

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

FOREIGN POLICY SPONSORS

WASHINGTON, March 15. Except that they are both rich men and cherished cronies of the President, William Christian Bullitt and Henry Morgenthau Jr. are as unlike as they can be. The ambassador to France is brilliant, daring, impassioned and a citizen of the great world. The secretary of the Treasury is slow, rather sure, deathly persistent and a citizen of Fishkill, N. Y. Yet the odd pair are the chief sponsors of the President's No. 1 and No. 2 foreign policies.

An investigation of their thinking is distinctly timely, for both policies will soon come before congress for consideration. The No. 1, or Bullitt policy, of support for the European democracies, is represented by the proposed amendments to the neutrality act, abolishing the arms embargo. The No. 2, or Morgenthau policy, of using our surplus cash to strengthen our position in the world, is embodied in the newly concluded Brazilian agreement, with its $50,000,000 loan and its $19,000,000 of export credits.

A clear distinction should be made, however, between No. 1 and No. 2. Through the French airplane incident, Morgenthau has been represented as an instigator of No. 1. He undoubtedly approves it, but the responsibility is really Bullitt's. Similarly, Bullitt undoubtedly approves No. 2, but the responsibility is really Morgenthau's.

POLICY NO. 2 It may seem singular that the State Department should be omitted when credit for the President's foreign policy is being distributed. But the truth is that the department actually opposed it at the start.

As has been noted here already, Morgenthau first conceived the use of American cash as a weapon of foreign policy about two years ago, when the Far Eastern situation was becoming acute. His object was to increase American exports, and he regarded China as a great potential export market. At the same time, he pointed out that, with a strong China, closely tied to the United States, Japan would cease to be a menace to this country. Therefore, he began to urge the President to let the Chinese have American credits. In his agreement to purchase Chinese silver, he made his first step. Then the anguished objections of the department prevented any further moves until last December, when the $25,000,000 Chinese loan was arranged.

At the same time, the Morgenthau policy's usefulness in South America was obvious enough. There it chimed in well with Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles' desire to block the commercial aggression of Germany. Accordingly, Morgenthau was permitted to announce some time ago the credits for South American nations. The Brazilian agreement, being sensible, advantageous to both countries, and founded on mutual concessions, proves that the studies were pursued to good effect. On it, of course, the State Department was in accord with the Treasury. Indeed, there are many signs that the department is not completely converted to policy No. 2, for which Morgenthau has supplied a businesslike motto:

"It's cheaper to make a loan than build a battleship."

POLICY NO. 1 The Bullitt policy, of course, is even more the President's than it is his friend's, and, since they are both spectacular fellows, it tends to be a rather spectacular policy. At its most dramatic, when it takes the form of stirring presidential pronouncements for the democracies and against the dictatorships, it too has disturbed some of the State Department's cautious spirits.

It may be called the "Bullitt policy" because of Bullitt's peculiar position vis-a-vis the President. The President turns naturally to Bullitt for advice. Bullitt is one of the six or eight men in Europe with really complete knowledge of all the factors of the world situation. He gathers and passes on to the President more inside information than almost all other American diplomats put together. The government's foreign policy is wholly at his disposal, and Premier Daladier confides in him as fully as his predecessor, Blum, used to do. And then Bullitt and the President are temperamental affinities, approaching most problems from the same angle.

Bullitt is a romantic, to be sure, and the confidential letters and telephone calls which he exchanges with his chief, must tend to exaggerate the dramatic of the President's methods. But the Bullitt policy is also a businesslike policy. Its object is to prevent, not start war, by giving such support to the European democracies that the aggressor nations will not dare to attack. The Bullitt policy, like the Morgenthau policy, has been much denounced of late. But there's still a lot to be said for strengthening ourselves and strengthening our friends.

Nice Writing About Georgia.

The editor of the Springfield (Ohio) Daily News has evidently enjoyed a recent motor trip through the south. In the March 6 issue of his paper he tells some of his impressions, in the first editorial column, right under the masthead. And he writes in a manner that ought to please Georgians. Particularly a certain Georgia official, a highway patrolman, who met the visiting editor. This is what the Ohioan has to say:

"The handsome young highway patrolman who thinks 70 is a little high, even on an irresistible Georgia road, is as smooth and irresistible as the road. He hates to be troublesome, but this is his business and if he didn't work at this job, it would be the WPA for him. So keep down to 50 the rest of the way into Atlanta, won't we please? On beyond the traffic is thinner and they aren't likely to interfere with 60, though 40 is the law. We want you to have a good time in Georgia, he says, and so we try to keep you from smashing up so you-all can come back some time."

"Thus Georgia heaps coals of fire on heads whose ancestors started William Tecumseh Sherman marching through it. It is a shame, too, that Georgia is so much of a Chesterfield, a policeman, yes, even a traffic cop, can be. After this pleasant meeting with one of its charming citizens we'd like to ask Georgia to give us to—anything, perhaps, save hold down to 50 mph on these irresistible Georgia roads. Some things just can't be done."

Of Course About Cotton.

There seems to be an unwritten law, or something that prohibits anyone from speaking of cotton and its problems. But this editor touches upon it only lightly and, to his credit be it said, doesn't attempt a solution. He writes on:

"A year's crop of cotton is in the warehouses unsold and piling for a new crop begins. Down the furrow goes one man behind one mule. The 'man with the hoe' is here the man with the mule. Glass in these share-cropper cabin windows where only board staves are now will be a sign that the problem of cotton is solved."

"Mile on mile, where once were cotton fields, the self planted pine trees show. The Georgia hope: these pines go into paper after awhile. Pine torches used to light us as we read our books. Now they will furnish the print for our reading under the new electric lights."

"Georgia is 400 miles as the tourist flies from north to south, in size the 20th among the states. It has 30,000,000 acres of these woods and will have more. Its red soil makes a warm background for

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Fright NEW YORK, March 15.

Recent discussion of unsuspected horrors which sometimes lurk in the food that Americans buy, prompted me to examine again one of those fright-books by which it is made to appear that the only way to escape poisoning is to live under glass in a hospital from the cradle to the grave.

One warning in this alarming work had to do with a famous brand of tooth paste. This paste, it was said, contained poison, and during the war a German officer committed suicide by consuming a tube of it. This caused me to shudder, because it happened that I use this very tooth paste, but after a time I pulled myself together, reflecting that, after all, I have no intention of spreading it on my bread, and if 20 years' use of this paste in the prescribed manner has not been fatal the danger is nothing to worry about.

The same feeling of calm courage possessed me after reading of the foul treachery of the man who sold adulterated ginger extract, causing a plague of paralysis, known as 'jake-leg,' in Kansas. Not even during prohibition, which was when this evil deed was done, did I use ginger extract for beverage purposes, and there was no assertion that a minute quantity of which is all that anyone would normally consume at once, would cause inconvenience.

Not Born

Moreover, it may be remembered for poisoning that during prohibition not only the bootlegger but the United States government itself poisoned the scotch-laws, and that many of us consumed hooch which we had reason to believe was dangerously impure. Probably that experience has increased our resistance to warning outcries for survivors of the long rebellion must feel that they were not born to die of poison.

The same work reports in a tone of startled indignation that the bright red hamburger which people buy at many roadside gas-and-lunch stations is artificially colored with a substance which wars against health and often is overripe. That, however, is not news, and wasn't news even when the book was published.

People have been knowing all this for years and years, and yet the hamburger curve in this country continues to rise like a high four, and the health services have yet to report a fatal epidemic of hamburger poisoning. I have known individuals to feel uneasy at baseball and football games after eating one or more hamburgers on the way up, but even though they were made of painted meat which was not fresh, the hamburgers, of themselves, could not have been convicted. The naked rye, Scotch or gin which the victims consumed out of the bottle must have been named by the defendant. Even so, I never knew of anyone dying of this trouble. Some few passed out, but popular opinion held it that they were overcome by hamburgers would have been derided.

Deaths

People in the circle of my acquaintance use in discreet quantities practically all the well-known brands of tooth paste, shaving soap, rouge, powder, breakfast food, canned stuff, ham and flour, and although at my age, one learns to expect occasional gaps in the ranks, no friend's death has been certified as due to such use.

They are, in the main, high-strung, high-tension people, and the wear and tear is such, so the doctors say, that the years after 40 are dangerous years and, in some cases, borrowed time. Those who have dropped out were well-timed of heart trouble, operations and other normal causes, even after prohibition, during which most of them did their bit for repeal.

I am not surprised to learn that some patent preparations cost much less to produce than the customer pays for them, nor does this news arouse resentment. In the zone between the actual cost of ingredients and mixing and the purchase over the counter many citizens take each a little toll in the way of wages or dividends on their invested savings so that they in turn may buy the services or the goods of those who pay the marked-up price for patent wares.

This being undoubtedly so, it is plain that if the distributors, middle-men and investors were squeezed out of the play and the goods sold direct, with only a small profit to the maker, the unemployment and relief problems would be unmanageable. Many of those who are consumers at the so-called high prices today would not be in the market as consumers at all.

It boils down to the fact that under our system many of us merely go through more or less laborious but unnecessary motions to justify our existence.

As for the poison in the tooth paste if we just bear in mind that tooth paste isn't jam, everything should be O. K.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

MR. TALMADGE IN THE HOUSE A day ago Mr. "Hell Bent" Edwards arose in the house of representatives to speak. His topic was the Hulet amendment but after a few brisk words on that subject he unfolded a copy of a morning paper and began to read from it an Associated Press story, an interview with former Governor Eugene Talmadge.

Mr. "Hell Bent" Edwards dwelt lovingly on Mr. Talmadge. He interpolated, or ad libbed, as the vaudevillians say. When, for instance, he read a statement from Mr. Talmadge to the effect that the legislature had done a good job, he asked, "Did you hear that?" And then, passing on to the portion concerning economy, he asked, "Pretty good stuff, eh?"

When he had done with it he said: "You boys ought to go up there to Gene's room at the Ansley and see Gene's Texas boots. He wears one pants leg in one boot and the other one out. You sure ought to see him."

"Gene's been down there in Texas leading a service for this Preacher Norris. You remember him. He's the feller we had up here to talk to us. I sure would have liked to have seen Gene preachin'."

The house laughed but there was a spatter of applause running through the laughter.

There is no doubt but that Mr. Talmadge had an increase in the already substantial number of visitors who have learned the way to his hotel headquarters in Atlanta.

BLEASE, OF BROOKS

Representative Blease, of Brooks county, related to Cole Blease, of South Carolina and one of the real veterans of the house, also arose to debate.

He, too, was debating the Hulet amendment, but like Mr. "Hell Bent" Edwards, he strayed into the governor's race.

"There are just two men with a chance to be governor in 1940," he said, "and that's Hugh Howell and Gene Talmadge."

There was applause from the gallery. Mr. Brooks went on with his debate.

A representative arose: "Will the gentleman yield?"

"Yes, I yield."

"Will the gentleman say which one of the two he intends to vote for?"

The house laughed.

"Well, I will say this," said Mr. Blease, "if one of them will withdraw I will take the stump for the other."

Mr. Hugh Howell is going around, shaking hands, and is smiling and genial. He already has announced for governor. No one has invited the house members to go see his boots, but some of the house know the way to his home.

Mr. Hugh Howell, as announced, is in the race. Mr. Talmadge has not announced but he has been in the race since the afternoon of the Macon convention last fall.

It's a long race, from now until 1940. And many a good fox hound runs himself out on a long race.

A FUNDAMENTAL WEAKNESS

All this campaigning for a 1940 office is of interest. There remains the speculation of whether Mr. Hugh Howell and Mr. Talmadge will off-set one another and permit some other choice to slip in as governor. Mr. Talmadge will talk of Texas and Preacher Norris and his new steers and his boots. But not of the state. Nevertheless, his forces will do enough Wilking. They do not believe Mr. Hugh Howell can split the Talmadge forces. Mr. Howell thinks he can and that in addition he will get all the other.

Meanwhile, there is another quiet campaign going on to find the man who might have a chance to slip in, if, and when, there is any political throat-cutting between the Messrs. Talmadge and Howell.

All this has disturbed the legislature. And it indicates a fundamental weakness in the Georgia set-up. A governor is no sooner elected in Georgia than he must begin to campaign for re-election. If he is re-elected he almost immediately loses all his influence because he cannot run again and "the boys" begin to look around on their own account. They want to run or they want to know to which star to hitch their political wagon.

The threads of the 1940 governor's race have tied up much legislation in the present session of the legislature. The cross-currents of political ambitions have interfered with the business of the state.

The rival factions in the legislature have had as their first consideration, the furthering of their political leaders and their interests. The people have suffered. Factional politics cannot work out any solution of the problem.

The job was for the schools, the sick and the old and for government generally. And not for the 1940 campaign.

When the Corporation Finds a Gold Mine, Every Little Stockholder Is Richer

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Many people in the east think California's Redwoods and Big Three identical, but they are alike only in grandeur. The Redwoods, found nearer the coast, grow much taller in proportion to their diameter. They are the trees that provide the beautiful and everlasting lumber. The Big Trees (Sequoia gigantea) are the oldest and largest living things in the world. When you see a picture of a stagecoach driving through the hollow base of a forest monarch, it is one of the Big Trees. These are too brittle to make good lumber. In fact, the finest remaining grove of them was cut down a few years ago and dynamited into splinters to make grape-vine stakes.

A similar fate will soon befall the largest of all stands of Big Trees unless this session of congress authorizes purchase of the land for a wilderness park. It was offered to the government for $350,000 less than 10 years ago, but there appeared no urgent reason for haste and no action was taken.

Now it is necessary to work fast, for the owners are unable to keep up the taxes or pay those in arrears, and must deliver the timber to lumbermen if they don't sell the land.

There is no fight in prospect this time. The owners wish to sell, but the interests have nothing to lose; the Department of Agriculture and Department of the Interior favor it; the nation would gain another national park, and California would have another asset preserved forever to attract visitors.

Every citizen, native or naturalized, rich or poor, has an equal share in all public property. It is yours in exactly the same sense that shares in a corporation are yours when you buy its stock. And this proposed park would add a Paradise to your holdings.

The region includes Redwood Mountain, Redwood Canyon and Kings River Canyon. Three-fourths of the trees on the Redwood Mountain slopes are Sequoias—many 20 feet in diameter, one 32 feet. One is 20 feet in diameter 160 feet above the ground. There are valley floors crossed by crystal streams, carpeted by Alpine flowers. There are sheer cliffs of 5,000 feet, peaks that rise to a height of 14,000. John Muir and the editor of the Geographic agree that no other region on earth combines so much of beauty, grandeur and magnificence.

I have never urged you to write your congressman about this or that, but in this case there is no controversy. You shouldn't mind spending three cents and a few minutes of your time to build a finer estate for your children.

BENES SEES FINAL VICTORY OF CZECHS

Fight Has Not and Will Not Stop, Former President Says at Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 15.—(AP)—Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, tonight described as a "new, shocking international crime" the dismemberment of his native country.

Without mentioning Germany or Adolf Hitler by name, he said that one of the four powers which "solely promised" at Munich to guarantee existing and safety of the Czechoslovakia territory, had "wantonly divided the territory and is occupying it with its army" after "provoking difficulties" which served as a "flimsy excuse" for the act.

Dr. Benes, now lecturing at the University of Chicago, gave his re-

PRAGUE, March 15.—(AP)—Germany's economic gain in Moravia and Bohemia will be the richest of all the rewards she has yet obtained through expanding her borders.

Czechoslovakia had a gold and foreign exchange reserve estimated at about $100,000,000, which now presumably will fall to the German Reichsbank.

Bohemia's production of war materials is greater than that of Italy's, and her mineral resources will help ease the Reich's lack of many raw materials.

action in a written statement to the press.

He said the occupation of Czechoslovakia territory was "one of the deeds through which Europe is deprived—and is going to be deprived in the future—of peace, order and tranquility."

"I know that after what has happened Czechoslovakia people cannot defend themselves and are obliged to give in to brute force. . . . The struggle for the freedom of the individual has always won out against brute force and oppression in the long run. It will not be different with today's brute force. A free Europe will be built up again and in it again free Czechs and Slovaks shall live."

He urged Czechs and Slovaks throughout the world to keep in mind that the fight for a "free people of Czechoslovakia has not stopped and will not stop until a free central Europe and a free country of the Czechs and Slovaks will be resurrected."

They will spend their holiday at their respective homes. Classes resume March 22.

Conferees Eye European Developments, Quickly Iron Out Differences; Enactment Formality.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(UP)—Congress tuned its ears to the ominous thunder of marching feet in Europe today and swiftly put the finishing touches to President Roosevelt's $358,000,000 emergency national defense program.

Final enactment of the measure, which will expand the army air corps strength to 6,000 planes, bulwark Panama Canal fortifications, and strengthen and augment seacoast and other defenses, became a mere formality when senate and house conferees consolidated differences between the two chambers.

Mr. Roosevelt will receive the signature as soon as both houses approve the conference report, probably tomorrow, and the program will get under way immediately.

The conferees reached their agreement while officials of the State, War and Navy Departments put increased pressure on the senate foreign relations committee for early approval of Senator Key Pittman's resolution to authorize the United States to aid in arming the Latin American nations.

Urgently Essential. They emphasized that it was an urgently essential part of the chief executive's program of "continental solidarity" which envisages diplomatic, military and naval co-operation tacitly designed to curb encroachment of the Fascist powers in this hemisphere.

Appearing before the committee were Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of the Navy William D. Leahy and General George C. Marshall, army deputy chief of staff.

Pittman, who is chairman of the committee, revealed that the three departments had collaborated with him in drafting the measure and that it probably will be reported favorably next Wednesday, after the group again hears the officials.

The house deficiency appropriations subcommittee meantime approved the President's request for $116,538,287 to get his emergency program under way. The appropriation, including $110,000,000 for "critical equipment"—automatic rifles, anti-aircraft guns, anti-tank guns, gas masks, artillery and ammunition—is embraced in the second deficiency bill which goes to the house floor next week.

Pilot Training. The appropriations subcommittee deferred action on Mr. Roosevelt's request for $7,300,000 to finance an airplane pilot training program and will dispose of the issue later this week or early next.

Other items for which funds were voted included $6,539,287 to strengthen seacoast defenses of which $3,295,631 will be spent in the continental United States, $766,284 in insular possessions and $1,416,372 in Panama.

Although Welles, Leahy and Marshall testified before an exclusive session, it was learned that they were in accord on the aims of Pittman's measure. They said that building of naval vessels and manufacture of military equipment for the Latin American countries would strengthen the bonds of understanding with Latin America and facilitate a stronger "united front" against the totalitarian aggression.

Leahy is reported to have assured the committee that facilities would be afforded for the construction of small war vessels "at cost." He said that the navy has considerable equipment on hand which could be made available to the Latin American countries.

with his scheduled visits to Moscow and other northern European capitals.

It was understood Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, had been instructed to inform Germany of this decision and also of the fact that Britain "strongly deprecated" Germany's march to the east, which "was not contemplated at Munich."

The prime minister said further payment of 6,750,000 pounds ($33,750,000), due Prague as the balance of loans and gifts granted after Munich dismemberment, would be halted.

For the rest, Chamberlain made it plain Britain would not fight now to stop Germany's drive eastward toward Europe's granary, the Soviet Ukraine, which many believe to be his ultimate goal.

Chamberlain's critics accused him of showing Hitler the way at Munich.

Sticks to Appeasing. The prime minister rededicated his government to the pursuit of appeasement to secure "the happiness of mankind." "Do not let us be deflected from our course," he urged, by "checks and disappointments."

Laborite David Rhys Grenfell, however, charged that Chamberlain's appeasement, instead of modifying central European disintegration, "has only given effect to it."

Warning that war is coming nearer, Grenfell declared that "the prime minister's simple faith and credulity pass all understanding." Weary Chamberlain, sitting opposite on the government benches, remained impassive.

DEEPER RIVER CHANNEL IS URGED BY WOODRING

Here's Obituary Of Czecho-Slovakia

By The United Press.

Born: To central Europe on October 18, 1918, from the union of Czechs and Slovaks, incorporating the lands of the Bohemian, Moravian and Slovak territories of the old Austro-Hungarian empire and the autonomous area of Carpathian Ruthenia.

Godfather: Woodrow Wilson. Confirmed: By the treaties of Versailles, St. Germain, Trianon and finally by the Teschen conference of ambassadors in July, 1920.

Developed in maturity: A peace-time army of 180,000 and 1,300,000 trained reserves, modernization of ancient Prague, great industrial development and a democracy with universal, equal, secret and compulsory suffrage.

Ailment: An undercurrent of inter-racial jealousies, accentuated in 1938 by the demands of 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans for "a home in the Reich."

Operations: Surrender of territories to Germany, Poland and Hungary in October and November of 1938.

Entered fatal illness: March 14 when Slovakia province seceded with German support and Hungarian armies invaded Carpatho-Ukraine.

Died: March 15 when German army occupied Prague and the remaining Czech areas of Moravia and Bohemia.

Age: 21 years, 4 months, 25 days.

TOKYO SHIFTS NAVY IN FISHERIES ROW

Spokesman Says Plan of Action Is Formulated To Meet Soviet Attitude.

TOKYO, March 16.—(Thursday)—(AP)—A Japanese navy spokesman said today Japan had prepared a plan of action in the event of failure of negotiations in the long fisheries dispute with Soviet Russia and revealed that warships had been stationed at Chinkai, southern Korea, for "regular training exercises."

The spokesman denied rumors of a naval concentration at Rashin, within 160 miles of the Soviet naval base, Vladivostok. He said the Chinkai maneuvers may have started the rumors.

The spokesman said the Japanese navy was watching the situation "with very grave concern."

The Japanese plan of action was assumed to mean the navy was preparing to give 20,000 Japanese fishermen protection when they make their annual voyage to the Siberian fishing grounds off Kamchatka peninsula in April.

TELEGRAM GREET'S 'LITTLE PRINCESS'

Shirley Temple Sends Congratulations to Her Atlanta Counterpart.

By LITTLE MAY ROBINSON.
Atlanta's "Little Princess" received telegraphic greetings yesterday from Shirley Temple, the "Little Princess" in the title role of the picture by that name.

That's just one of the fine things that happened yesterday to little Ruby Sheldon, the Atlanta child who is being "fathered" this week by the members of Louis Dinkler post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Veterans of another war informally adopted Shirley Temple as their "Little Princess" in the Twentieth Century-Fox picture which comes to the Fox theater Friday, and the boys of the Dinkler post saw in this beautiful story an opportunity to make one of their little friends their own little princess-for-a-day.

Yesterday a committee from the post, together with Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, secretary of the Atlanta Board of Film Review, who is playing the part for Ruby that Queen Victoria did for Shirley in the picture, went shopping with the little girl. They bought a luncheon outfit of white and yellow—everything for her from a lovely little yellow bonnet to shiny new shoes and little white gloves. She will wear this ensemble at luncheon tomorrow—the day on which she will indeed be a little princess.

But Ruby is to have a party at which she will entertain six of her playmates, in her own suite tomorrow afternoon at the Ansley hotel. For this affair she would need a party outfit. So her fairy godfathers and godmothers bought another ensemble—a very princess-like suit with all the frills and accessories. And in this she will play hostess at her own party.

A very sparkling-eyed little girl rose to display her new finery when, during her shopping tour yesterday, a group of Girl Scouts visited the local Little Princess in the girls' department of Rich's. But there was no timidity about her. She was as happy in her new-found togs as is little Shirley when she awakes from her dream and poverty to find that her bleak and bare bedroom has been converted into a little throne-room of beauty.

Tomorrow's Constitution will give a full schedule of the activities of Atlanta's Little Princess for the day and evening.

Shirley Temple's Telegram to Atlanta Girl

DEAR RUBY I DO HOPE AS ATLANTA'S LITTLE PRINCESS YOU WILL FIND MUCH HAPPINESS PLEASE GIVE MY LOVE TO MRS RICHARDSON AND THE BOYS OF THE DINKLER POST YOUR BRAVE COURTIERS LOVE SHIRLEY TEMPLE.

North Carolina Glee Club To Sing At North Fulton School Tonight

Tallahula Falls Circle Sponsors Presentation, With Proceeds To Go to Charitable Work; Group Will Offer Serious and Popular Numbers.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

The University of North Carolina Glee club, a group of handsome young singers famous throughout the south for their choral ability, will be presented in concert at North Fulton High school at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The Tallahula Falls Circle of the North Fulton High school is sponsoring the presentation, and proceeds will go to the charitable work of the circle.

The glee club is on its annual spring tour, and has appeared with success in cities in North and South Carolina before coming to Atlanta. They have made several radio broadcasts this season, and upon their return will take part in the annual spring production of an oratorio at Chapel Hill.

John E. Toms is the director. He is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Music, and took graduate work at the University of Michigan. Prior to his becoming a member of the university music department three years ago, he taught voice at William Penn College, Texas; Central College,

OKLAHOMA ELECTED ALBANY CHAMBER AIDE

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ALBANY, Ga., March 15.—A. E. Runnels, since 1934 secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Ponca City, Okla., has been elected secretary of the Albany Chamber of Commerce.

W. B. Haley, president, announced Mr. Runnels was unanimously recommended by an investigating committee headed by John T. Phillips and unanimously elected by the board of directors. He accepted, stating he would make plans to move immediately to Albany. He will succeed Walter R. Brown, who leaves April 1 to become secretary at Savannah.

and Mary Hardin-Baylor College, at Belton, Texas. He is presented in concert throughout the country as well as taking the tenor lead in many oratorio presentations.

The program tonight will feature 40 male voices. As a special feature they will present a comic operetta in full costume, "Anthony and Cleopatra." The operetta deals with the romance of a campus cod and a football star whose athletic ability suffers because of his loves.

The club will sing many choral numbers of a serious nature as well as many popular favorites. Included will be, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee," Bach; "Adoramus Te," Mozart; "The Nightingale," Weelkes; "For a Last Good Night," by Schubert, with Glenn Starnes as soloist; "I Heed Not Thy Warning," Greig; "All Through the Night," Welsh air; "Hame, Hame, Hame," Scotch air, with Paul Simkoe, soloist; "There Was a Shepherd Maiden," Morgan; "The Trumpeter," Dix-Salter; "Mah Lindy Lou," Strickland-Brewer, and "The Green-Eyed Dragon," Charles-Price.

A hundred students from Moultrie High school took part in the Second District Music Festival held recently in Thomasville, and were awarded nine first places in various contests.

GOOD MORNING By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

REBUILDING.
A little couple I married a year or more ago asked me to come by the other night and dedicate their home—one of the requests I most enjoy as a minister. They had told me sometime ago that they had bought this old abandoned farm, and that they were rebuilding the house and the fences and reclaiming the orchard, etc. When I got out there I had no difficulty finding the road that turns off the highway, for just to the side of their mail box is a sign easily read by the light from one's car—a finger pointing, and the words, Twin Oaks.

As I drove along the winding, pebbled road toward the house, I could see the light in the window. Glancing out in the moonlight, I could see plum and pear and peach trees in bloom. I stopped in front of a paling fence. The dog came running around from the side yard and a peafowl screamed in the back lot.

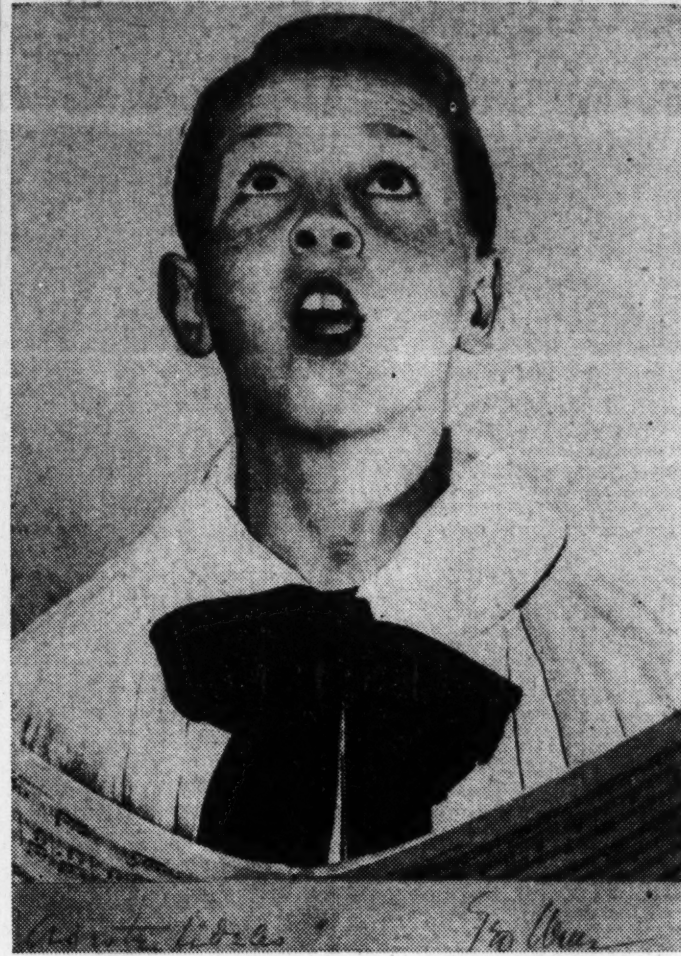

I stood a minute looking at the old house with chimneys at each end and magnificent boxwood borders trailing off into the darkness. Tapering cedars lifted one's eyes to the taller pines in the background. The odor of violets and honeysuckle was pleasing. It was more than a place—it was a home, I felt.

The front door opened, and a gracious word of welcome bade me come through the front gate and into the house. I crossed the threshold with assurance that I was entering a house that had stood for a long time—a house that many people had owned. And there stood the young husband and wife that a few months ago I had married. They were beaming with joy. Here and there they took me from the old parlor to the kitchen, through the old hallways, up and down and back again now to the living room and in front of the old, old fireplace, aglow with shimmering logs. We talked and ate and talked some more, and then we opened God's Book to read and pray. And I said good-bye.

And on my way back across the city, I stopped at the jail to talk with a man—a young man—who was to be freed the next day. "What can I do when I pass through the open door tomorrow?" he asked me. I thought a moment, and then I told him how the little couple had rebuilt the old house. He got the point. "I see," he said. "And I'll begin tomorrow rebuilding my life, with God's help. And then we opened God's Book to read and pray. And I said good-bye."

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Swing is an oxygen tent under which jazz is slowly dying."

So says Dr. Powell Everhart, director of music at Limestone College in Gaffney, S. C., and we rush to applaud the statement and pray for its truth. Since the beautiful, wise and kind young women whom he instructs are perfectly modern, and since they do not protest their professor's teaching, we gather that there are indeed places where jazz is dying and swing is in its unavailing oxygen.

President Robert Granberry, of Limestone, is another Chinese checker player. If we find any more southern college and university heads who play the game we are going to propose their admission to the Southern and Southeastern Athletic Conferences. President Granberry is also a ping-pong player, the college champion. But these are only two of the many talents that make him a first-class human being.

At Limestone we heard Profes-which has no problem to solve or serve but only a mirror to hold to life.

The word "snob" in origin is an "sine nobilitate," meaning "without nobility." On the ancient rolls of Oxford College, when a student was "without nobility" he was listed as "snob." In modern usage the word still means "without nobility" but the definition of nobility has been changed to denote something more than blood or inheritance. There are two kinds of snobs today, it seems to us. There are the snobs who look down on their fellow creatures, and there are the worse snobs who are continually suspecting fellow creatures of looking down on them.

The terrifically hard-boiled managing editor of our paper (he who had us on the carpet lately for saying "proven" when we should have said "proved") doesn't say exactly what he would do but implies that it would be something awful if he ever, ever caught us in one of the following nine unpardonable sins: (1) The sin of saying less for fewer; (2) the sin of saying secure for obtain; (3) the sin of saying like or as though for as if; (4) the sin of saying proven for proved; (5) the sin of saying though for although; (6) the sin of saying people for persons; (7) the sin of saying bride-to-be for bride; (8) the sin of saying groom for bridegroom; and (9) the sin of saying hurry for hasten.

THE JEWISH BIBLE?

Psalm 117—as follows:
"O praise the Lord, all ye nations; laud Him, all ye peoples. For His mercy is great toward us; and the truth of the Lord endureth forever. Hallelujah."

Is Josephine a Hebrew name? Josephine is the feminine of Joseph, which means "He shall add."

Where is the Jewish colony of Bira-Bidjan located and what are its principal industries?

In Siberia on the Amur river near Khabarovsk. It is being transformed into a fertile agricultural country by means of modern equipment and methods. Principal industries are stock raising and agriculture.

What is a shochet?

The slaughtering of fowl, cattle and other beasts is considered a religious act and must be done in such a way as to cause the least possible pain to the animal. This may be done only by a person especially trained and licensed to follow that profession. He is called a "shochet" and must be a devout Jew of high moral character, thoroughly versed in all the hygienic laws and regulations laid down for the lawful killing of animals. He must also pass a very strict examination in the various details of slaughtering and the post-mortem findings.

NAZI PLANE FALLS ON SECRET FLIGHT

Was Hopping Non-Stop From Berlin to South America.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 15.—(P)—A German airplane making a secret long distance non-stop flight from Berlin to South America was reported forced down at sea today.

The report, picked up by the Air France radio station on the island of Fernando de Noronha, said the crew was rescued.

At Natal, one of the points at which it had been expected the craft might land, it was reported the plane was forced down near Fernando de Noronha, 125 miles off Brazil's easternmost tip. The German steamer Monte Pascoal was reported to have rescued the crew.

The plane, a Heinkel, left Berlin at 2:06 p. m. (7:06 a. m. Atlanta time) Tuesday, passed over the Cape Verde Islands at 9:45 a. m. (3:45 a. m. Atlanta time) today, and had been expected to reach Natal tonight.

Delaware Court Begins Hearing On $2,000,000 Hungerford Estate

New York Tax Body Seeking To Establish Residence There of Late Atlanta Woman, Whose Fortune Has Doubled Since Her Death.

Legal proceedings to settle the three- and a-half-year litigation over the two million-dollar estate of the late Mrs. Julia Murphy Hungerford were begun yesterday and are expected to be concluded today in the chancery court of Wilmington, Del. Chancellor W. W. Harrington is presiding.

Mrs. Hungerford died here in November, 1935, and left the bulk of her property to her mother, Mrs. John E. Murphy, and her sister, Mrs. Julian Riley. To her husband, Robert Hungerford, she willed $5,000 and some pieces of jewelry.

At the time of her death the estate, mostly in stock of the Coca-Cola Company and the Coca-Cola International Corporation, was valued at $1,083,000. Since then its value has doubled.

Her will was admitted to probate in the ordinary's court of Fulton county, on the grounds that she was a resident of Georgia. Her husband's contention that she was a resident of New York, and the will should be probated there, was denied by both the Fulton superior court and the state supreme court.

Hungerford then filed proceedings in the surrogate's court of New York county, tying up the estate, and asking for the appointment of an administrator, claiming that, as his wife was a resident of that state, he was under the law entitled to half the estate, or approximately $1,000,000, instead of the $5,000 bequeathed him.

The surrogate's court found in his favor, and appointed the New York Trust Company as administrator. An attempt by the New York Tax Commission to have the will probated there, however, was blocked by an injunction granted the executors, Dr. Julian Riley and Hughes Spalding, in the United States court for the southern district of Georgia.

The New York Trust Company then filed papers in the Delaware courts to force the Coca-Cola International Corporation to pay them dividends, due the estate, that had accumulated during the litigation. The Atlanta executors countered with a plea that the dividends should be paid them.

Testimony from prominent Atlantans and New Yorkers as to the residence of the Hungerfords began yesterday, and will be continued through today. Atlantans slated to testify were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith Jr., James D. Robinson Jr., Mrs. C. E. Freeman and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Draper.

Mrs. Hungerford was the daughter of the late John E. Murphy, Atlanta capitalist. She was first married to Conkey Whitehead, millionaire Coca-Cola bottler, and the pink-walled estate that he built for her on Pace's Ferry road is one of the properties in litigation.

NORTH-SOUTH PLANE ROUTE IS PUSHED

Atlantans To Confer With Leaders of Other Cities Today.

Representatives of the aviation committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will confer with representatives of Cincinnati, Lexington, Ky., and Knoxville in the latter city today relative to plans for obtaining Civil Aeronautics Authority approval of a proposed north-south air line serving the four cities.

Representing Atlanta will be Frank K. Shaw, secretary, and Councillman Cecil Hester, member of the chamber's committee.

The conference will be devoted principally to preparing a case emphasizing need for the new route. The franchise, if decided on, will be awarded by the aeronautics authority to some air line with the proviso that an air-mail contract be obtained from the Postoffice Department.

Delta Airlines officials have expressed themselves as being anxious to start the line.

Besides the Atlanta delegation, the conference will include George C. Schiele and Herman A. Bayless, of Cincinnati; Ed Wilder, of Lexington, and C. E. Woolman, vice president and general manager of Delta Airlines.

Officers of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs are shown as they appeared yesterday at the executive board meeting. Left to right, Miss Martha Galt, of Canton, first vice president; Mrs. John B. Georgia Music Clubs Officially Open Convention Here; Contests On Brilliant Program Presented to Appreciative Audience at Woman's Club; Gilt's First Picture To Be Seen Tonight.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

With the meeting of the executive board at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs officially opened its four-day convention in Atlanta, with Mrs. John B. Guerry, of Montezuma and Atlanta, state president, presiding.

The meeting was featured by many interesting reports of musical activities made by district directors and departmental chairmen from all parts of Georgia, and plans were made for many new projects.

Following the morning session, a luncheon was given for members and after the luncheon a second meeting of the board was held.

Since this is the year for the junior convention, contests for groups of all ages are being held in violin, piano and vocal solos, piano ensemble, musicianship, hymn-playing and several other phases of music. Contests began in full swing yesterday afternoon, with most of them held in Eggleston hall, and some in the parlor of the Georgian Terrace.

These contests will be continued through today, tomorrow and Saturday morning, with awards being made Saturday noon.

The formal opening of the convention, to which the public was invited, was held last night at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium with a brilliant program being presented to a large and appreciative audience. Michael McCall, member of the music faculty of the University of Georgia, and winner of the state young artist contest, was featured in a group of piano solos, which he performed with finest artistry. He will represent Georgia in the south Atlantic district young artist contest in Greenville, S. C., in April.

A galaxy of famous Georgia artists also made brilliant contributions to the program, namely, Mrs. Howard C. Smith Jr. and Mrs. Frank Harold, in an exquisite group of duets for soprano; T. Stanley Perry, tenor, and Haskell Boyler, baritone, in a fascinating group of duets; Hazel Rood Weems, violinist, winning her audience with her brilliant technique, and Mrs. William R. Elsas and Mrs. Pierpont Spiker receiving an ovation for their perfect ensemble and masterly interpretations of a two-piano group. Mrs. Charles Chalmers was the perfect accompanist for the vocalists and violinist.

Tonight's program presents the motion picture "Forever Yours," with Benjamin Gilt, world-famous tenor in a glorious rhapsody of romance and song, with Joan Gardner, talented young English actress taking the feminine lead. The picture will be shown at the Brookhaven theater, on Peachtree road, beyond Buckhead.

Convention registration cards will admit delegates, and the usual motion picture price will prevail for all others. Transportation will be arranged for those who have no way of going. Call the convention registration desk at the Georgian Terrace.

Miss Etelka Evans, of Cincinnati, national junior counselor and honor guest, will speak before the acts and at the press breakfast tomorrow.

Gilt sings in the picture several arias in their entirety from his most famous roles, including "M'Appari" from "Martha," "O

JAPANESE WARSHIPS TO GUARD FISHERIES

Full Responsibility To Be Fixed on Russia, Tokyo Warns.

TOKYO, March 15.—(P)—Japan today gave fresh indications that her long dispute with Soviet Russia over Siberian fisheries might cause trouble and held Russia fully responsible for whatever might occur.

The Japanese navy prepared to give 20,000 Japanese fishermen the protection of warships when they make their annual voyage to the Kamchatka fishing grounds next month.

It was reported that some naval vessels had moved to Korean bases in anticipation of possible Russian efforts to block the fishing fleet.

A foreign office statement disclosed that Japanese ambassador Shigenori Togo was given a flat refusal when he made a last-minute appeal to Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, to postpone auctions of Kamchatka peninsula fishing lots where fishing rights had been given under treaty by Russia to Japanese for decades until this year.

Togo declared that Japan would not respect results of the auctions, scheduled for today in Vladivostok, and "might be constrained to act in self-defense."

Tokyo newspapers reported that the auctions were conducted—meaning to Japanese that the valuable fishing grounds had passed into Russian hands.

Foreign office spokesmen said, however, that attempts would be made to settle the long-standing quarrel through diplomatic channels.

A foreign office statement said that Japan placed full responsibility on Russia for whatever may result and that Togo had informed Litvinoff of the "stiff opinion sweeping Japan" because of the dispute.

DUCE AND CABINET CONFER ON GRAB

Lack of Advance Notice Indicated, But Officials Are Noncommittal.

ROME, March 15.—(P)—Premier Mussolini met with his cabinet ministers today for what was believed to be a discussion of Germany's moves in central Europe. Officials were noncommittal on the Nazi occupation of remnants of Czechoslovakia, but some diplomats said they believed the Italians lacked advance notice of Chancellor Hitler's intentions.

The Gazzetta del Popolo, of Turin interpreted the German expansion of influence as clearing the way for Nazi support of Italian territorial demands on France. The paper said:

"When we present Paris with our bill for a century of French policy intended to drown us in the waters of our own sea (the Mediterranean), France will find... Germany free from every eastern worry and ready at Italy's side with all her forces and all her heart."

Diplomats awaited with interest the next Italian move because the new Hitler advance occurred before Mussolini had gained satisfaction on her Mediterranean claims.

All of Patrons, Mostly Women and Children, Reach Safety.

TAUNTON, Mass., March 15.—(UP)—More than 400 patrons, mostly women and high school children, calmly filed to safety late today as fire swept through the Strand theater here.

All available firemen, summoned by a general alarm, were unable to check the flames, which completely destroyed the building, at a loss of $75,000.

TRIAL OF SHERIFF IS SET FOR JUNE

Illness of Attorney Necessitates Postponement.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

CLARKESVILLE, Ga., March 15. The trial of Sheriff Frank C. Wofford, under charges of accepting bribes and extortion, which was to have been taken up for hearing yesterday in Habersham county superior court, was postponed until the June term of court, which will convene June 5.

The postponement was ordered due to the illness of Sam Kimzey, of Cornelia, defense attorney. In addition to Mr. Kimzey, the sheriff has employed B. P. Gaillard, of Gainesville, former judge of the northeastern circuit, and Colonel Robert McMillan Jr., of Clarksville, son of the present judge.

Auto Recovery Also Is Solution Of House Thefts

Prompt recovery of a stolen car solved the burglary of a house last night.

Patrolmen Fred Ray and Perris Douglas, of the county police, said they arrested three youths on Boulevard, near Pleasant park, in the car about an hour after the vehicle was reported stolen from in front of the home of T. D. Willis, at 356 Pinetree drive.

The back seat of the car contained a quantity of clothing, a pair of riding boots, a radio and other articles which the youths, according to the officers, admitted taking from a house in Buckhead. They added they "didn't know the address or whose house it was."

The youths were lodged without bail in Fulton tower on charges of burglary and larceny of automobile. They gave their names as Benny Evans, 19; Harold Taylor, 17; and James Evans, 23, all of Atlanta.

Segregation Law Cited by Arnall

By The Associated Press.

White persons and negroes, whether pupils or teachers, are meant to be segregated in separate schools," Attorney General Ellis Arnall ruled yesterday.

Holding specifically that white teachers could not legally teach negro children in Georgia's public schools, the attorney general cited a provision of the state constitution that "the schools shall be free to all the children of the state, but separate schools shall be provided for the white and colored races."

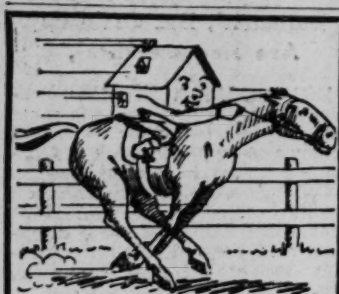

M. E. Thompson, assistant state school superintendent in charge of teacher training, who requested the ruling, said the practice was followed to some extent.

WATKINS APPOINTED WPA AREA ENGINEER

Succeeds L. B. Barrett in Charge of Fulton, DeKalb Work.

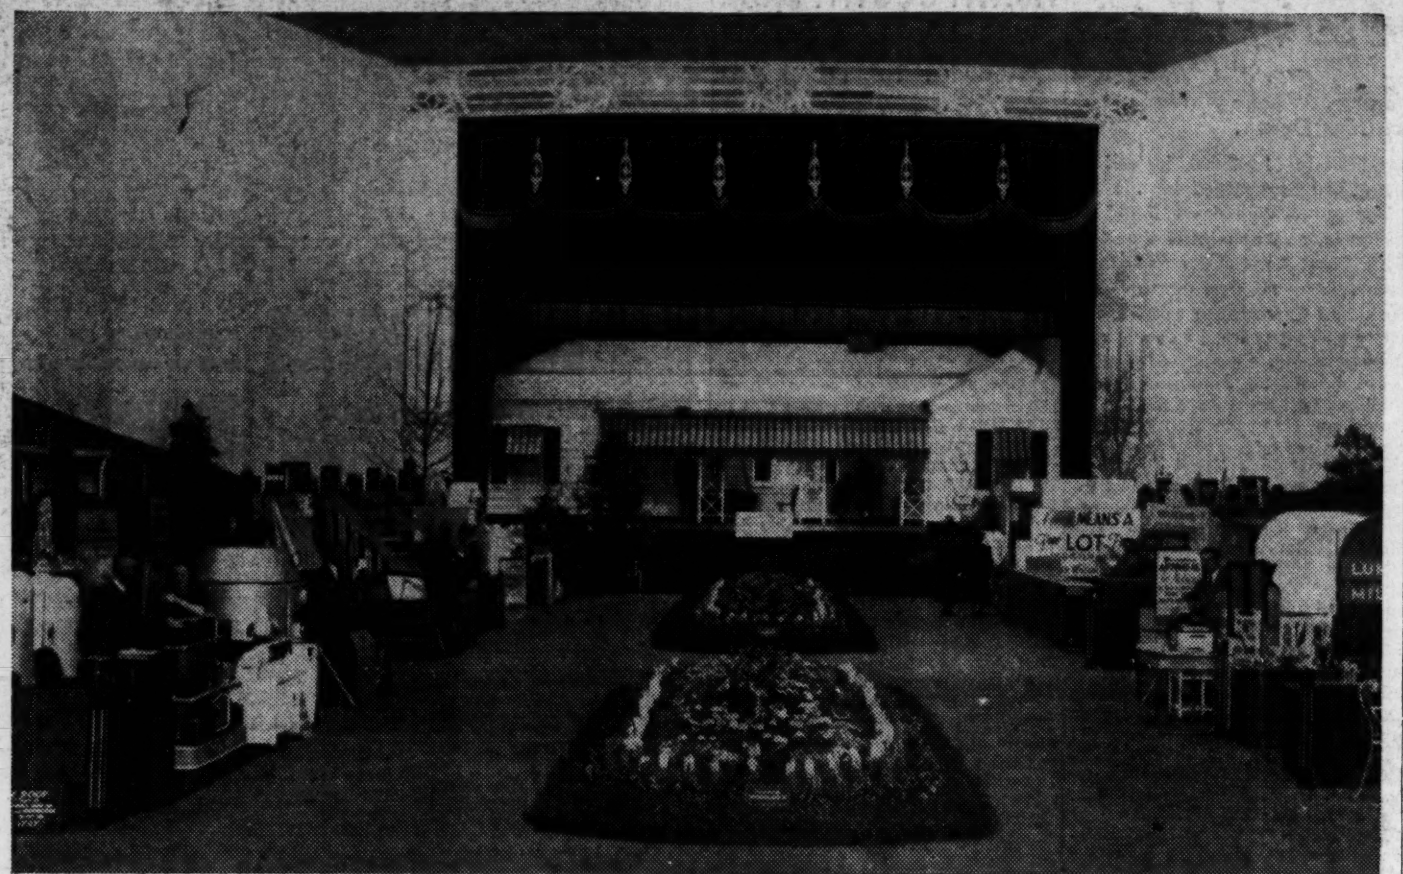

Robert C. Watkins was named yesterday by Miss Gay B. Shepperson as successor to L. B. Barrett, WPA area engineer for Fulton and DeKalb counties, whose resignation she recently accepted. The appointment was effective immediately.

Watkins, a Georgia Tech graduate, was connected with various relief agencies from November, 1933, to June, 1936, when he reentered private business. He was WPA district engineer in 1935-36 and served as assistant state engineer under the FERA and CWA.

Barrett recently failed in an effort to have traffic charges nolle prossed in Judge John S. McClelland's division of the Fulton criminal courts.

He is under $600 bond, accused of driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident, and pointing a pistol at another. The case has been set for the third week in April.

DeKalb Solons Blamed in Defeat Of Merger Action by Harrington

Candler Scored for 'Inaccurate Statements' at Perfunctory Hearing of One-Government League's Proposal; Issue To Be Made Major Political Consideration, Leaders Say

Responsibility for defeat of the compromise bill designed ultimately to merge city and county governments yesterday was laid on the DeKalb county delegation by W. Eugene Harrington, chairman of the Citizens' One Government League, sponsor of the proposal. Harrington declared that the issue will be a major political consideration in future elections and promised that the league will continue its efforts unabated.

Asserting that the league had only 30 minutes notice of a public hearing, that each side was given only five minutes for debate, and that C. Murphy Candler, representing the DeKalb delegation, made several inaccurate statements about the bill, "but there was no time to correct them," Harrington scored a system which permits "the 25,000 Atlantans living in DeKalb county to thwart the will of the people and prevent an expression on so vital a matter."

"In other words the legislative committee gave exactly five minutes for reasonable discussion of a matter involving possible savings of hundreds of thousands of dollars a year to our taxpayers," he said.

"Mr. Candler's chief argument seemed to be that passing the bill was not a legislative function when only the legislature can authorize a vote of the people. I would like to ask whether it is a legislative function to deny the people permission to have such a vote. I would like to ask whether it is a legislative function to give absolute veto power over the local government of the 400,000 citizens of Fulton county to the representatives of the 25,000 citizens of Atlanta living in DeKalb county."

Harrington recounted that members of the league conferred with DeKalb delegation members Monday and that they complied with stipulations laid down by the delegation and were informed "it was all they wanted."

The condition for support, according to Harrington, was that approval be given the bill by DeKalb county Commissioner Scott Candler and Ordinary Vess Morgan.

"After we complied with their request and obtained their support in writing, we thought the matter was settled definitely."

SALVATION ARMY GREET'S COMMANDER

Lieutenant Commissioner Arnold Installed as New Territory Chief.

Lieutenant Commissioner and Mrs. William C. Arnold, who arrived yesterday from New York to take over command of the southern territory of the Salvation Army, formally were installed last night at the Army auditorium.

The meeting was presided over by Preston S. Arkwright, chairman of the advisory board. The new commander was inducted by Commissioner Edward J. Parker, personal envoy of the Army's world commander, General Evangeline Booth, and national secretary, who came here from New York for the ceremony.

Principal address of welcome was made by Pat Gillen, personal aide to Governor Rivers. "Speaking not only for the state of Georgia, but for the whole south as well," the Governor's spokesman said, "I want to extend a sincere welcome and to assure you of our hearty co-operation in such plans as you may have formulated to increase the great work that the Army is doing in the south."

"As an exserviceman, I know of the splendid things the Salvation Army did during the great war; and I know, and the whole south knows, of the things you are doing now in the great spiritual and moral war."

Other speakers last night included A. L. Belle Isle, Lieutenant Colonel Harry H. Bayes, of Jacksonville; Major John Bivens, of Charlotte, N. C., and Colonel and Mrs. Richard F. Stratton, of the territorial staff.

Lieutenant Commissioner and Mrs. Arnold were accompanied by their daughter and son-in-law, Captain and Mrs. J. W. Busby, who will join the southern territorial staff. A luncheon will be given for the new commander and his wife by the Atlanta advisory board today.

Mrs. J. O. Wynn Fetes D. A. R. Visitors Today

Among important social events scheduled for today is the luncheon at which Mrs. James Osgood Wynn entertains at the Piedmont Driving Club in compliment to a group of distinguished leaders in Daughters of American Revolution circles who are in the city attending the state D. A. R. convention being held here this week.

Covers will be placed for Mesdames William A. Becker, of Summit, N. J.; Julius Y. Talmadge, of Athens; Willard Steele, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; T. J. Mauldin, of Pickens, S. C.; Henry Belk, of Charlotte, N. C.; Julian McCurry, of Athens; Frank Callan, of New York, and Charles F. Rice, of this city.

Lena H. Cox P-T. A.

Lena H. Cox P-T. A. will sponsor the Dr. Pepper Novelettes at the school Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Jessie Reece will conduct the program. The public is invited. A small admission will be charged.

D.A.R. Leader Wears Presentation Gown at Opening Session Here

By Sally Forth.

WHEN Mrs. William A. Becker, of Summit, N. J., addressed the opening session of the 41st state conference of the D. A. R. on Tuesday evening, she wore the same beautiful flesh-tinted satin gown that she donned when she was presented at the Court of St. James two years ago.

The handsome matron, who is honorary president general of the National Society D. A. R., made her bow to their majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, during the coronation year.

At the presentation, however, Mrs. Becker's gown featured the required long train for court appearance. She now wears the dress minus train, and on Tuesday evening the gown's beauty was offset by a cluster of deep purple orchids worn on the distinguished visitor's left shoulder.

The dress bears historic as well as sentimental interest, for since United States Ambassador Kennedy has discontinued the custom of presenting Americans to Great Britain's King and Queen, Mrs. Becker's dress will go down in history as one which was worn by a D. A. R. leader at the final court.

For years it has been a custom for N. S. D. A. R. presidents general to present one of their gowns to Smithsonian Institution when they retired from the high office, and it is likely that Mrs.

Becker's much cherished dress will be added to those already on display at the institution.

Mrs. William Pouch, of New York, president of the national society, Children of the American Revolution, was another handsomely gowned daughter attending the Georgia convention's opening session. Sally learned that the trio of exotic orchids worn on her shoulder was a gift from her husband, who sends his distinguished wife three of these gorgeous blooms to wear at the opening session of every state or national D. A. R. conference which she attends.

Mrs. Archie Galloway, a newcomer to Atlanta and a former resident of Maplewood, N. J., is an interesting figure attending the present convention. She was presented to the delegates by her lifelong friend, Mrs. Becker.

When the latter was Florence Hague, she acted as maid of honor in the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur de Graff, parents of Mrs. Galloway, at a ceremony taking place in Newark, N. J. Mrs. de Graff was the former Helene Tonkin. Later when Mrs. Becker became a bride, Mrs. DeGraff acted as her matron of honor.

Delegates and visitors at the present conference are evincing much interest in the beautiful array of paintings on display in the room adjoining the convention hall.

The collection includes a group of hand-painted coats-of-arms of several distinguished families whose members are attending the conference. They are painted by Mrs. James K. Keen Jr., of Dublin, who is a delegate from the John Laurens Chapter, D. A. R.

Glimpsed at the opening session were Harrison Hightower, of Thomaston, whose wife is state regent of the D. A. R., and Mark Smith, of Thomaston, whose wife is a leader in the organization and who has recently been named treasurer of the State Officers' Club; Mrs. Max Land wearing Parma violets and gardenias, the gift of her two daughters; Mrs. Owen McConnell wearing one dozen gardenias; Mrs. John J. McKay, of Macon, regent of the Mary Hammond Washington Chapter, attired in a blue ensemble; Mrs. Howard McCall, always loyal to Tallulah Falls school, announcing that the performance to be presented this evening by the North Carolina Club is sponsored by the North Fulton Junior Circle of the Tallulah Falls school.

ATLANTA friends of Miss Virginia Woolley, an extending this well-known landscape artist a royal welcome during her current visit here. For the past 18 years the former Atlantian has lived in California, where she is a popular member of the artist colony residing at picturesque Laguna beach, near Los Angeles.

Miss Woolley is visiting Mrs. B. K. Clapp, who will keep open house on Friday afternoon at her home in Ansley Park in honor of her guest. It is interesting to learn that the friendship between the artist and her hostess began when they were classmates in the second grade at the Calhoun Street school when Mrs. Clapp was Gertrude Hall. The late Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Woolley, prominent and beloved Atlantians, were the artist's parents and she is related to a number of leading Atlantians, who inform Sally that her study of art began under B. A. Richardson, a former Atlanta teacher who now resides in Texas.

Miss Woolley has made quite a name for herself as an American landscape artist. She has exhibited at the salon in Paris, where her collection won high awards. Incidentally, one of Miss Woolley's works now hangs in the Fine Arts building at the San Francisco Exposition which opened last month.

Habit of Right Eating—Aid to Weight Troubles

By Ida Jean Kain.

Well, here it comes! This isn't about a beauty who has been on my mind for months! She has been doing all the things I keep urging you to do ever since she was 3 years old—and she is completely beautiful!

If there were any way of doing it, I would like to take Kleinchlor, wife of Laurit Melchior, the famous opera singer, around the country and show her off. She is the most irresistible argument I know for living up to the basic rules of diet and exercise.

Most of you carelessly along breaking all the rules of healthful living, and then wishfully for beauty, whereas Mrs. Melchior has been true to all the conditions that make beauty possible and as a result she has more vitality, sparkle and sheer loveliness than one woman really needs.

To begin with—and this will startle you—she does not believe in diet. She thinks it's just silly to go without all the good food you need. "So many women," she observes, "are dieting—always dieting. I was at a tea once where all the ladies declared they were on diets—but by the time we left, there wasn't a little cake or a stuffed date to be seen!"

She believes in having all kinds of vegetables, salads, cheese, butter, milk and liberal quantities of lean meat. She has lean meat twice a day—"because if I had only a salad bowl I would go hungry."

She eats bread with very little butter and never eats sweets. In her opinion, that's just plain "right eating," but when you get used to it, she says, you have no trouble with your weight and will look much younger than if you were always going on a diet. So you will! These are the foods you really need and the ones you should learn to like on the balanced menu. Unless I can bring about this change in your food habits, I am not really helping you. Your weight troubles are never over until you have the habit of right eating.

Here's another shock . . . our perfect example has not exercised for 10 years. But she doesn't count hiking, skating, riding and horseback riding as exercise. Mrs. Melchior does these things for the enjoyment they afford and because she has always been used to a great deal of activity—she started skating at the age of three, was swinging from bars and rings and doing other formal gymnastics at five and later, in the summer, would ride a bicycle the whole day long. It is easy to see why she has a perfect figure!

All of this bears out my own conviction that any woman who keeps her muscles in tone does

This isn't have to bother with special exercise, with the exception of throat exercises every day, circling the head, moving it forward and back, stretching the neck muscles. No woman can keep a young throatline without exercising the throat muscles. So, that settles, too!

I have always believed that anyone who had plenty of exercise through childhood and the teens, and enough outdoor activity later, and who formed the right food habits, was bound to be lovely. But I never really expected anyone to come along and prove all this!

Here's Response To An Asking Bid

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Once the partnership has definitely agreed upon its trump suit, an asking bid by either partner, made at a four level or higher in a new suit, gives no indication to partner regarding the asked suit. Asker bids the suit solely to question partner, specifically concerning partner's holdings in the asked suit. . . . does partner hold the ace, king, singleton or void in the asked suit?

North

H-K J 10 4
D-8
C-A 7 5 3
E
S-Q J 8 7 4
H-A J 5 2
D-K Q 6
C-K Q 6

South opens the bidding one spade, North jumping immediately to three spades, setting spades at once as the agreed suit. South rebids four diamonds. . . . an asking bid. South wants to find out if North holds second-round control for diamonds. . . . king, singleton or void. . . . a "fit."

A positive response to an asking bid guarantees a "fit" in the asked suit. Responder shows the "fit" and full outside strength at first opportunity, in the following manner:

1. Holding the ace of the asked suit, two outside aces, North would respond five notrump.
2. Holding the king or singleton in the asked suit, three outside aces, the response is five notrump.
3. Holding the ace of the asked suit and one outside ace. . . . or holding the king or singleton and two outside aces, the response is four notrump.
4. Holding the king or singleton of the asked suit and one outside ace, responder bids the suit in which the ace is held.

In the above example, North's response is five clubs, guaranteeing the club ace, a "fit" in the asked suit, diamonds. The bid also denies any other outside ace or the response would have been in notrump.

When the ace is held in the agreed suit, responder jumps in the agreed suit, lacking the ace for the asked suit or lacking outside aces, with the "fit" responder signs off by bidding the agreed suit at the lowest possible level.

How to show aces and voids and when to raise the asked suit will follow.

Till tomorrow. . . .

Vivien Leigh Tells Correspondent She Is Homesick for England

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 15.—"Beau Geste." . . . Says Director William Wellman to Gary Cooper, "If you go to sleep during this 'take,' don't forget to stop breathing." Gary's answer is a gentle snore. He lies on a dirty cot in a dirty dormitory. He is supposed to be dead. . . . outside, a battle miles away—in Yuma, where 1,000 extras are storming the Foreign Legion's iron shield—in Paramount's Hollywood studios.

Gary wakes up, stops breathing while his kid brother, Robert Preston, covers him with the Legion flag—white, blue and gray—the gray will photograph red. As matter of record, Preston is also dead—he died two weeks ago in the desert. In fact, everyone acting on the set is dead—particular the soldier on the far cot, who expired five weeks ago before the company went on location. (Pictures are funny that way—you die one week, and fight the battle in which you died, the next.)

"Do I get to kiss Cooper in this scene?" Ray Milland did "giggles" "Ghost" Preston. "Let's not be trivial," reproves Wellman. "Put some more perspiration on your face—look at Coop, give me that good smile—and go." Three "takes" are necessary. Once the flag gets stuck. The second time, dead-man Gary sneezes.

A new setup is ordered. Electricians bang their loudest. Elephants stumple noisily around with heavy lamps. Wellman shouts orders. And Gary Cooper pulls his Legionnaire cap over his eyes.

Juvenile Spread

Pattern 6334.
A kiddie would love to own this spread—and it's fun for a grown-up to make too! The center panel, with the children's prayer and all the fascinating juvenile figures, is crocheted in one piece and the teddy bear border is done in three pieces—for easy handling. Simple lace stitch sets off the lettering. Pattern 6334 contains instructions and charts for making the spread shown; illustrations of spread and of stitches; materials needed.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in coin to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

"Gone With the Wind." "I love you, I love you, Ashley," says Vivien Leigh to Leslie Howard. "My eyes hurt," replies Howard, unromantically, referring to the strong technicolor lamp that makes him blink. Time out while the lamp is moved. . . . "I thought you were taking a vacation after 'Wizard of Oz,'" I gently chide Director Victor Fleming. "I'm not here," he grins. "How did you come to take over this picture?" I ask. "I said the wrong word at the wrong time," he replies.

Vivien Leigh, clad in a white-and-green hoop dress with green velvet ribbons in her dark hair, tells me she is homesick for England and will return there, rain or shine, after "G. W. T. W." is "in the can." "I want to do a play on the London stage," she tells me.

Contributing to Miss Leigh's sadness is the absence of Laurence Olivier in New York, where he will soon appear in a play with Katharine Cornell.

Leslie Howard is another "wind-ite" who journeys Londonward when the picture is completed—to appear as the star of his own production in H. De Vere Stackpoole's "The Man Who Lost Himself." I ask Leslie for his impression of George Bernard Shaw, in whose "Pygmalion" Leslie acted and directed. "I've never seen him," confessed Howard. "He didn't come near the set. All he did for the screen version of his plays was to write one or two scenes." The way Mr. Shaw tells it, I thought he wrote the scenario, produced, directed, and acted every part in the movie. Didn't you?

"Sorority House." . . . "You're the most beautiful woman I ever saw," says James Ellison to Anne Shirley. For a lad who has been married two years, Mr. Ellison says this hackneyed-but-ever-welcome flattery a little too glibly, and Director John Farrow orders a retake. Farrow is quietly excited over his approaching fatherhood—in about six weeks. "I wanted the baby to be born in Honolulu—Maureen (O'Sullivan) preferred Dublin. So we compromised on Hollywood."

A Man in Love Doesn't Tease Fiancee

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Don't tell me we women have an easy time with the men. I'm a widow with a comfortable home which a certain widower has found a very pleasant place to spend an evening. To all appearances he was very fond of me and asked me to marry him "someday." All the while he was going to see another woman regularly and not being willing to share him I asked him to cut her out. He refused point blank and our engagement is broken. I knew that if I wasn't sufficient before marriage, I wouldn't be after; yet I miss his delicate attentions so much I am wondering if I did the right thing. Can you console me by saying I did?
E. K.

Answer: Sister, you did exactly right. There's no use hanging on hoping against hope that a leopard will change his spots or his jungle roving habits. Much better to cut loose, take a little rest of loneliness and then look around for a domesticated cat that will sit by your cozy hearth and purr for the rest of his natural days.

It doesn't happen that a man who really loves a woman tortures her with habitual visits to another—except in instances where the other woman has claims which he dare not deny. In this event, the scared cat isn't going to muster courage as the days pass. So long as he can keep number one in a good mood by paying her delicate attentions his two-timing is comparatively simple. So is the widow simple who lets him get away with it.

A free seat by a warm fire in a comfortable home, a dinner thrown in now and then for good measure, are a benefit which a widower will accept graciously. So long as it is agreeable to hostess and guest to keep things on a friendly footing, no expectations beyond pleasant conversation and good companionship there's no reason why the sex warping and feeling the inner man shouldn't proceed. But when the widower injects the love motif and the widow is willing, he should come through; and will if he's honest.
CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I'm going with a widow who doesn't make enough to dress and educate her children so I've been helping her financially. We are planning to be married soon and in the meantime I'd like to know if I am doing the wrong thing in supplying her with funds before we are married? If so, how should I withdraw them?
H. C.

Answer: Why not advance the marriage date and settle all questions of etiquette, finance, romance; settle them to complete satisfaction of all parties concerned? However pretty a signature on a check may appear to a widow, a signature on a marriage license would be prettier and more certainly within the bounds of good taste. That's not begging the question is it?
CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Learn To Budget Your Own Income

"Where does the money go?" Another week's salary shot to pieces—and nothing saved for the Smiths' spring wardrobe. Emergencies happen in every family. Junior needs the doctor, the car needs repairs—but a budget plan provides for such upsets, enables you to carry out your plans in spite of them.

With planned spending Sue would soon find where to save the little sums that would make their income shockproof. The grocery bill of $14 is way too high—no wonder there's not enough for clothes.

By planning meals on a weekly basis, balancing one day's luxuries with another day's frugalities—a well-seasoned stew, bread pudding the next day, Sue would find $12 ample for a weekly food allowance for two adults, two children on Fred's income of $35 a week.

By including an advancement fund in their budget plan, there'd be money for doctor and car. Then Fred could meet such items as gas, repairs without pinching—get money ahead for a new car, too.

Large seasonal clothes-purchases are no problem if about 11 per cent of the income is put aside each week for clothing.

Find out where your money goes by keeping a trial budget for a month. Put down every penny you spend, save sales slips, receipts, shopping lists—to get a clear picture of your spending habits.

Then you're ready to plan a workable budget adapted to the needs of your family. Decide where you're spending too much, where too little.

You actually stretch your money, make it go further when you budget. Our 40-page booklet, "How To Budget Your Income," gives you an easy-to-follow budget plan. Sample budgets from real life. Gives ruled pages for a year's entries. Shows you how to get what you want for your money—home, car, education.

MY DAY Texas NYA Practice House for Girls

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HOUSTON, Texas.—After lunch yesterday, we started with Elliott and Ruth for Waco, Texas, and we stopped at Elliott's office, and he discovered some urgent business. Miss Thompson and I, therefore, bid them goodbye and stepped into Mr. J. C. Kellum's car which was following us, because we had promised to stop at an NYA project on the way. We stopped in Hillsboro to see a practice house for girls. Rural girls come in for two weeks periods and then return home to put into practice what they have learned, after which they return for another stretch of training. This alternating system works out very well, for two shifts are kept going and on each return a girl is given training in activities in which she did not participate during the previous period.

Once in Waco, we left Miss Thompson at the hotel and I went out to see the building which the NYA boys have constructed for the municipal airport. Then we stopped at the Girls' Club of Waco for a meeting with members of the state advisory committee of the NYA. The Girls' Club is interesting in that the women's organizations in Waco have sponsored it, feeling that the underprivileged girl needed a place to spend some of her leisure time.

We were not able to board the train until after 1 a. m., so we caught up with the mail. I went to sleep with the light shining full in my face and would probably never have caught the train at all, if Miss Thompson had not been firm that sleep for her was out of the question if she expected to sleep on the train. This was, of course, pure unselfishness, but I accepted it knowing that I could not stay awake.

In the waiting room at the station we saw a young woman with a small child, apparently sleeping on something which looked like a rough canvas stretcher. Every now and then the child would give a croupy cough and move her little arm which hung over the edge of the stretcher in a most uncomfortable position. Miss Thompson felt sure that they needed some help, but since the young woman never even looked at us, neither of us had the courage to speak to her. In consequence, I think both of us left with rather a guilty conscience.

We conferred in Houston at 7:45 a. m. After breakfast came a press conference and then I went off with Mr. Kellum. They have a hospital project here much like the one which is being carried on in New York state and which I described to you before. We visited a woodworking shop where school desks were being repaired and then drove some 50 miles to see a little community center built for the small town of Hempstead. The NYA boys have done a beautiful job in stone and the building is attractively planned with a big fireplace in the large main room, which also has an opening on the outside so that they can have outdoor picnics if they like. We stopped in to see some buildings on the way home, put up by NYA boys at Prairieview College, which is the only state supported negro college in Texas. Back at the hotel now with no further public activity until my lecture this evening, though a few people are coming in to see me later on.

Tests of Functional Efficiency

By Dr. William Brady.

Vite, as defined earlier, means a rating of 80 percent or better.

functional efficiency. Health, as generally understood, means a rating of not less than 70 per cent in functional efficiency. People consider themselves well, as a rule, until their functional efficiency declines below 70 per cent, and then they begin to think they need medical advice or care. However, most of the 70 and 80 percent dabble more or less in self-doctoring with tonics, sedatives, laxatives, digestives, stimulants, hypnoses, medical and physical remedies they hope may improve this or that function.

Individuals in the 75 per cent class readily pass ordinary medical examination such as life insurance examinations, since such an examination reveals no manifest sign of disease. But they cannot pass a health examination proper, for that includes precise measurement of functional efficiency which inevitably reveals weaknesses that get by the ordinary physical or medical examination.

The customary fee for an ordinary life insurance medical examination is $10. It is worth $10 to have a doctor's opinion or assurance that one has no sign of tuberculosis, cancer, Bright's disease, hernia, arteriosclerosis, heart disease, etc. at present. An arbitrary fee for a health examination cannot be stated because it would depend on what particular tests, clinical and laboratory, might be required in the individual case. For example a young man contemplating marriage or a married man might wish to know definitely whether he is fertile. A man or woman who has been overweight for 10 years ought to have a test of carbohydrate tolerance to see whether he or she is drifting toward diabetes. A student pilot should know whether his heart has sufficient reserve power to function adequately at great altitude.

For prophylaxis persons engaged in certain occupations should know whether their blood contains more than the trace of carbon monoxide present in nearly every one's blood today; or whether they are excreting through the kidneys more than the normal trace of arsenic daily. Obviously only a charlatan offering a "complete" examination as a bait to attract credulous customers sets a definite fee in advance. Intelligent folk know they can trust the physician of good

Woman's Quiz

Q. Give a recipe for spiced cider.

A. Two quarts of sweet cider, 3-4 cup brown sugar, 4 sticks of cinnamon, 1 teaspoon each of allspice and cloves, 1-4 teaspoon salt. Mix together the dry ingredients and add to the cider. Simmer for 10 minutes, strain through a cloth and rehear.

Q. How much caffeine does an ordinary cup of coffee contain?

A. About 1-2 to 3 grains.

Q. How can rats and mice be exterminated from a house?

A. Cardinal points in their control are: Protection of food; rat-proof building; the use of traps and poisons. A circular on the control of rats and mice in the house can be obtained from our Washington Service Bureau, 1013 13th street, Washington, D. C., by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Washington Service Bureau, 1013 13th street, Washington, D. C., for a reply. Shirred shoulders, tiny waist, wide hem—they all add up to a silhouette of great charm and chic, in this afternoon dress (1720-B). It gives your figure exactly the right effect; soft fullness over the bust, slim hips and waist, and rippling width at the hem. The sash bow, tied in the back, enables you to fit it to just the right snugness; and it gives the youthful, straight-out-of-school look that fashion stresses for spring. The sleeves, puffed at the shoulder and tightened in to the arm below, make the slim line look even slimmer. Make this charming dress of flay crepe, silk print or taffeta, and wear it with a brilliant brooch or a contrasting flower at the V-neckline.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1720-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 4-8 yards of 39-inch material. LOVE COMES LAST

Hannah Disappears. Dale Believes She Has His Revolver With Her

By JULIA ANNE MOORE.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

"I wish there were something I could do."

"There isn't, of course, thank you."

A little silence. Then Bart said, "You'll have luncheon with me tomorrow?"

"I'd like to, Bart."

He said good-bye and she hung up and wondered why she hadn't thought to say something about the things from Hannah's purse.

Bart didn't come to the office until a few minutes before 1 o'clock and they went out almost immediately. "Did Kate tell you I called to make sure Hannah's things were there?" she asked.

Bart nodded. "One of the men at the garage discovered them and the foreman sent them up to the apartment. How did you know I had them?"

"I went to the garage to see if they were still under the seat where I had slipped them. I should have told you they were there the night we were at the cigarette case and the cigarettes as well."

Something odd happened to Bart's expression. "What do you mean?"

"I may be wrong, Bart," Laura said, "but I think we're going to find the answer to Hannah's 'moods,' as Dale calls them, in those cigarettes."

"But Laura—" He swallowed hard. "I had Kate pile into the car this morning and take the whole collection back to Hannah. I thought the poor kid might be needing some of the stuff. Kate was to say I found it all on the back seat and knew it was hers because of the monogram on the cigarette case."

Laura smiled. "It doesn't really matter, I suppose."

"But what about the cigarettes?"

"Bart, did you ever hear of marijuana?"

Bart's eyes fairly bulged. "You don't mean she—" His fist came down on the table. "But of course that's it. Why didn't we think of it before? How did you guess it?"

But that she would never tell. If he had not known that Phillips was a marijuana victim, he would not find out from her.

"Something made me think of it," she said. "I may be mistaken about it, you know."

"Oh, no, you're not. That's the answer. Did you call Dale?"

She told him she had not called Dale and for the moment he let the matter drop. But not for long. He was restless while he ate and the moment Laura indicated she was ready to leave, he said:

"We had better call Dale from here, I think. The first thing he must do is get hold of the cigarettes in that case and any others that may be lying around. After that—well, it's up to him. If she were my daughter, I'd lock her up."

He stepped into a phone booth in the restaurant lobby, Laura walked off a little way and waited. When he came out, he said:

"Dale's an old woman. He's in a dither about Hannah again—says he hasn't seen her since noon and he's just discovered she, or some one, made off with his service revolver."

"What time this morning did you send Kate out with Hannah's belongings?" Laura asked.

"He should have reached Dale's and come away again before 10 o'clock," Bart replied.

"And Dale said he hadn't seen Hannah since noon?"

Bart nodded. "You're thinking she got to work on the cigarettes as soon as they arrived?"

She had been thinking precisely that. "Shut up in her room, probably," she said. "And by noon, with her head well in the clouds, she was in her car and on the way to the city."

"But she hasn't any car, hasn't she since the Romney crash. And last I heard she hadn't any license."

"One of Dale's cars, then. And what would a license mean to her?"

"But why," Bart asked, "do you think she came to New York?"

"Where else would she go?" That was evasion. Actually, she thought Hannah would come to New York because of Bart. But if Bart knew Hannah was seriously in love with him, he had never confessed as much and she didn't want to be the one to tell him.

They had walked several blocks when Laura said, "Did you tell Dale about the cigarettes?"

"I tried to, but I don't think he heard a word I said. He was too eager to tell me about the missing revolver."

"What did he say about it?"

"Only that he had taken it out of his desk drawer to wipe it off and oil it. One of the gardeners called him out about something or other and he forgot about the gun until after Hannah had left the house. When he did think of it, it was too late."

Laura was silent as they walked on. Bart said suddenly, "Marijuana and a gun add up to trouble and I'm sorry because I like Dale. But selfishness or not, I've no intention of adding Hannah to my worries. I've done my best to tell Dale about the cigarettes and that is all I can do. If I hear she has killed some one or put a bullet through her own giddy little head, I'll be genuinely sorry, but until I do hear it, I'm forgetting that Hannah exists."

She remembered. "For a man with enough money and the right sort of temperament, it would be a lot of fun to cut loose when he was still young enough to enjoy things," Laura said.

"And do you think I have the temperament?"

"No, I don't. But you've disciplined yourself to the point where you can adjust yourself to practically any situation or condition that appeals to you. If you made up your mind to forget about work and play for a few years, I believe you would make a success of it."

They reached their office building and paused. Laura asked, "Are you seriously thinking about it, Bart?"

"I was," he confessed, "until last night. Flying back from Chicago, I worked out a tentative itinerary. It would be like this: First year, Europe; second year, China, Japan and Hawaii; third year, knocking around the old United States. That was as far as I had gone when I landed at Newark and heard about Phillips."

Laura said, "It's an interesting itinerary. I don't know about China, Japan and Hawaii, but Europe appeals to me and I like the third year best of all. Haven't you any one to take Mr. Phillips' place?"

"Not here in New York. It would take too long to break anybody in. If I go off on a three year excursion, it must be soon. My only hope is to pull in one of the branch managers, a man who knows the business from the bottom up and isn't afraid of responsibility."

Was he trying to tell her something? She was afraid to look at him.

"How do you think your friend Cooper would make out as general manager of the agency?"

Still she could not look at him. "I'm afraid my opinion wouldn't be worth much there, Bart."

"Why not?" he asked. "You know him better than I do. He had his own agency in Newbury and he built it into something. That's why I went after him. Not only that, but, proportionately, he has done more business since he opened our Bridgehaven office than any other branch office or even the main office in the metropolitan area. As an advertising salesman and executive, I know him pretty well and he stacks up. But as a man I don't know him at all. And you do."

There was very little about Andy she didn't know. "Bart," she said, "have you ever known any one who measured up to your ideal in every tiniest detail?" She looked up at him, smiling. "You see, I'm hardly the person to give an opinion about Andy because that's the way I feel about him."

Though she was no longer looking at him, she knew Bart's eyes were fixed on her profile, that he was weighing what she had said against something that had been in his mind for a long time.

"I can't conceive of Andy failing at anything he really enjoyed doing," she told him. "If you offered him the job and he accepted, you could go away as long . . . as you liked and never have a moment's uneasiness."

"You say that as if he might refuse," Bart said.

"He might at that. He's rather upset now, you know. Do you plan to offer him the place, Bart?"

"I don't know. I want to think it over for a day or two. They turned into the crowded lobby, found places in the rapidly filling elevator. Bart said under his breath, "Shall we say two years loafing in the United States instead of a year in China, Japan and Hawaii?"

It was the first time he had reminded her of their interrupted plans—the first time since Nina's death—and though she had been through this with herself a dozen times already, she was conscious of a twinge of pain, a faint sense of disappointment as if she had had a secret hope that Bart would voluntarily release her from her promise.

But why should he? And why should she want to be released? This clinging to something that no longer existed was absurd and futile and cowardly. Nina's death hadn't altered their lives, hers and Andy's. Nothing ever could. To fight against the inevitable like this was childish.

Leaving the elevator, she said, "I'd rather have China, Japan and Hawaii, if that's what you want, Bart."

"We'll toss a coin," he said, grinning. "Heads, we come back to the states after a year in Europe—tails, we will at least see what the orient has to offer. When she nodded agreement, he said, 'I'll write Cooper this afternoon and tell him he can have the job if he wants it.'"

"But you said you wanted to think it over a day or two."

"There's hardly time for that," he said, reaching for the door-knob. "If we're going to get off before we're senile, he'll have to come here and get the hang of things from the main office and I'll write the letter at once and if he doesn't answer by Monday, I'll run up and have a talk with him."

Sitting at her desk, going back over those last few minutes, Laura saw very suddenly and very clearly that Bart had had considered the possibility of a change in their plans because of Nina's death. That almost whispered question in the elevator had offered her the opportunity to tell him, frankly, that now that Andy was free again, she must ask to be released from her promise. Reassured, there was no longer any necessity of delaying his decision about Andy for she understood now that his plans for a leave of absence had been contingent upon her decision to go along.

Crackers Buy Pitcher Who Won 27 Games for Macon in 1938

It's a funny thing. March came in, on schedule, like a lion. And then, in the middle of the month, along came Jack Lamb.

It was necessary to look twice at Jack Lamb, world's greatest bass fisherman and easily one of the greatest of all fly casters.

In fact, I have been looking twice and three times at Jack Lamb ever since he breezed into town. He is wearing a blue suit that defies description.

It has the blue of the night, the blue of the sea, the blue of mood indigo, and the blue of old Erin lassies' eyes blending in a pattern that strikes the eye—just like those black bass hit his lures.

"Doggone if I ever saw so many country boys ogle a fellow just because he happens to come in wearing a new suit. Better take a good look, boys, that's what the well-dressed men will be wearing this summer," Jack Lamb said.

Out of the cow country years ago came Jack Lamb, now 48 and looking not a day older than 40, to embark on one of the most unique of all jobs. A great oil concern decided to pay him to fish.

And for some 18 years now—it's difficult to finish this sentence, friends—Jack Lamb has gone from Mexico to Canada, from Atlantic coast to Pacific coast, doing nothing but fishing and taking pictures of fishing and hunting, and getting paid well for it.

He has more friends than Charlie McCarthy—gentlemen friends, I mean—he is not a Cassanova like McCarthy, and one of his proudest possessions is a letter from the late Will Rogers, unto whom he has been likened in all sections of the country because of his manner of speech and other characteristics.

Said Will Rogers—"I guess you caught more fish than anybody in the world and me less. When you are the best in a profession that takes in everybody, then you're something, and that's what they all say you are. If I was going to fish I would get a big net; there is no skill but more fish."

Once Jack Lamb caught 340 black bass in one day. He doesn't do like a lot of folks, fish from sunup to sundown.

What would he do with so many fish? Well, he threw them all back. Believe it, because it is true, he has thrown back every fish he has caught in the past 11 years. Lamb will demonstrate his prowess with the rod and reel in a free exhibition at Piedmont park Sunday.

GEORGIA WATERS PUZZLED HIM. Jack Lamb probably wouldn't have mentioned it if he hadn't been asked.

"What luck have you had in Georgia waters?" "Well, it's a funny thing," he replied. "I have stopped at some very likely spots around this state. Things looked just right for fish. But I couldn't catch any."

"I tried to figure it out and reached the conclusion that there must be some seining and dynamiting going on. The streams seemed fished out."

I didn't feel so bad about the bad luck of other fishing expeditions upon learning the experiences of an expert. If Jack Lamb can't catch them when everything looks just right, well, they just aren't there, that's all.

Lamb is so good that he can tell by glancing at the weather and the direction of the wind just about how many fish, if any, you'll catch.

He has made an active lifetime study of the habits and temperament of fish, and there is no guesswork involved. Direction of the wind and state of the weather mean everything.

WEATHER CHANGES FATAL. Writing in a well-known weekly magazine a couple of years ago, Lamb made some pertinent observations on fishing gained through his many years of experience.

He pointed out that violent weather changes have a tremendous effect on the temperamental bass. He observed that even if one goes fishing on a perfect day, there won't be any luck if bad weather is approaching.

"When the goldfish are glued to the bottom of the bowl, it means that his distant cousins out in the creek are also resting serenely on the bottom, and that no tempting morsel can induce them to come to the top. If bad weather is approaching, Mr. Rooster and Mrs. Hen

Lamb, Champ Angler, In Free Demonstration

Jack Lamb, the drawling Oklahoman who has no challengers for his title of "world's greatest fisherman," agreed yesterday, following hundreds of requests, to stage a free exhibition of his skill at fly and bait casting Sunday afternoon at Piedmont park. The demonstration will begin at 3 o'clock over the southeast and southwest sections of the athletic field at Piedmont.

Two years ago Lamb put on one of his famous demonstrations here and despite a raw, windy day, a crowd of 4,000 turned out and saw the king of all anglers do his stuff.

Lamb has been fishing since 1910 and fished daily for 17 years. He has caught and thrown back 50,000 bass.

Jack, who bears a striking resemblance to the late Will Rogers, never accepts money from fishing tackle concerns. Therefore, when he recommends a certain type of equipment, his audience knows it is an unbiased selection.

This is a great opportunity for the amateurs to learn some of the finer arts of angling. The exhibition will be staged on dry land.

MACK STEWART, A RIGHTHANDER, JOINS ATLANTA

Mann Offers Outfielder Fulton to Meridian; Hargrove Slugs 'Em.

By ROY WHITE.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 15.—Atlanta's pitching staff was given a big boost this morning when Mack Stewart, sensational young Macon righthander, joined the squad. Stewart, who won 27 and lost 11, including play-off games, was purchased outright from the Macon club late yesterday afternoon. He participated in a three-hour workout this morning, the first of the year for him.

President Earl Mann, who arrived late last night from a brief business trip to Atlanta, has offered Charlie Fulton, a promising young outfielder with the Union Bag team here last year, to the Meridian club of the Southeastern league. Fulton has not signed a contract, but wants a chance with one of Atlanta's working agreement clubs and has asked for a chance with Meridian.

The acquisition of Stewart makes 20 pitchers to be given a trial with Atlanta this spring. Don Leveen, a southpaw from Barnesville, Ga., failed to report and Judge Landis in making Winslow Stroupe a free agent, didn't help the cause.

40 DRILLS IN ROW.

Atlanta's record of consecutive practices without a break was very much in danger for a while this morning. A few drops of rain fell and just three miles away in the heart of Savannah, there was a downpour for a few minutes.

A strong wind and fast moving clouds kept the record intact, running the string to 40 without a minute's loss. In fact, the sun was shining hazily through the three-minute sprinkle at Municipal stadium.

Jim Marsh, big Chicago rookie, out with an infected wisdom tooth for two days, was back in uniform today, taking his regular turn in the pitcher's box, throwing to batting practice and participating in the pepper games.

Spirit at the workout today was very much the same as that of last week, with every player sharing in a continual chatter both on the field and on the sidelines. It was much of the spirit which aided the team in winning both the Southern and Dixie Series championship last year.

Woodrow Hargrove, up from Cordele last year as a pitcher and outfielder; Lester Burge, Alf Anderson, Al Rubeling, Nig Lipscomb and Russ Peters, were outstanding in today's long hitting drill.

Hargrove belted three in succession over the right field stands, for the longest drives of the day. Burge and Anderson sent the fly chasers "on their horses" with a couple of nice drives near the center field fence. Anderson and Peters, though not so long with their hits, had them well placed and did not take any cuts at bad balls. Lipscomb hit a couple over the left field stands and was very much in the drills, behind the plate and in the infield.

Two more tentative dates have been set for the workouts.

Bean Party To See Tech Color Film

Birthday Celebration for Veteran Coach Slated Saturday Night.

The color movie of Tech's western football trip, including a showing of the Tech-California football game, has been added to the celebration honoring Joe Bean on his 65th birthday.

The big party, which is being arranged by the boys who played under Bean, is scheduled for the Ansley roof Saturday night.

More than 200 reservations have been received already, and those who wish to join the party are asked to call John Oliver at Walnut 2241 for reservations.

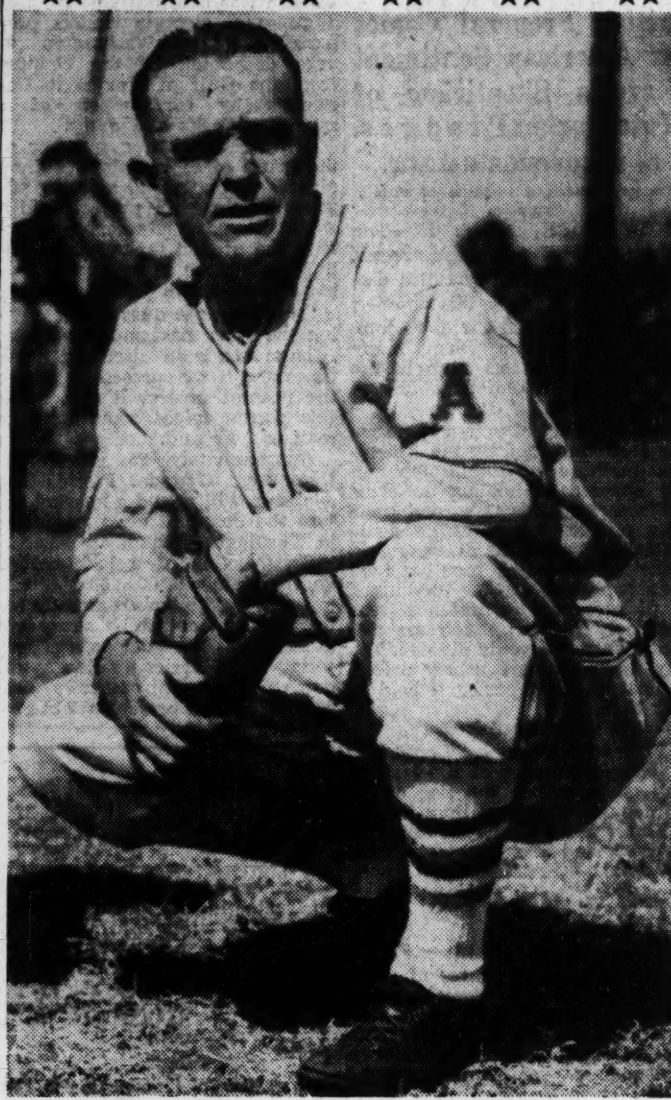

Coach Roy Mundorf, of Georgia Tech, will show the movies during the evening. Coach W. A. Alexander, of Tech, will make the principal speech, and John Westmoreland will serve as toastmaster.

Speeches will be limited at the party. After Coach Alex makes his talk the party will develop into an old-fashioned gabfest.

The Tech movies also are being shown here tonight under the sponsorship of the Omicron Delta Epsilon Society in the Parish Hall of St. Luke's Episcopal church. Ticket sales are limited. They are scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

SUNKEL HURLS WELL. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15.—The St. Louis Cardinals raised their Grapefruit League standing to .500 today by defeating Casey Stengel's Bees, 1 to 0, in Boston's first exhibition game of the season.

Lee Sherrill, Tom Sunkel and Morton Cooper held the Bees to six hits. Elvin Adams, Cardinal outfielder, singled in the lone run in the sixth inning. Boston lost its best chance in the eighth when Al Simmons struck out with the bases loaded.

YORK GETS THREE HITS. LAKELAND, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers closed their five-game intrasquad practice series today with the regulars beating the recruits, 8 to 2. Tom Bridges and Floyd Giebell, Evansville recruit, worked for the regulars. Bridges gave three singles and one run in four innings, while Giebell allowed four runs and seven hits. George Gill and Rosie Lawson pitched for the youngsters. Greenberg and York each got three hits. The exhibition schedule starts with Cincinnati at Tampa Friday.

WEBER ON WAIVER LIST. LAKE CHARLES, La., March 15.—(AP)—The Athletics asked waivers today on Bill Weber, holdout third baseman. The Athletics' Manager Connie Mack said, perhaps trading him to a National League team.

IN ANOTHER INTRA-CAMP GAME, the "Johnsons" beat the "Finneys" 12 to 9. Sam Chapman hit a homer, a double and two singles in five times up.

GRIFITH SEEKS TRADES. ORLANDO, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—President Clark Griffith of the Senators said today he might make a trade or two before the baseball season starts. Griffith is worried about his outfield and pitching. He knows Outfielders Case, Wright and Estelita can hit, but can they field? He also has too many left-handed swatters.

MEDWICK DEAL IS OFF. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, tonight moved Joe Medwick from the trading block after a conference between Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers officials.

Vice President Larry MacPhail and Manager Leo Durocher today saying they had offered a "record price" for Medwick, but it evidently was not enough to satisfy President Sam Breadon and Vice President Branch Rickey of St. Louis. Medwick is a holdout, demanding $20,000. "Medwick will not be sold or traded by the Cardinals," Rickey said tonight. "He made this statement with no thought of trying to force Medwick to accept the contract terms offered but with a desire to deny current reports that Medwick is on the open market."

"If Medwick does not feel he cares to accept the club's terms, he will have to hit it out by himself for the Cards will place a full team on the field against Pittsburgh in the opening game April 17."

GROVE LOOKS GOOD. SARASOTA, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—Lefty Grove, the big question mark of the Red Sox, was the cynosure of all eyes today as he gave his arm "the works" in a 15-minute mound workout. Even Tom Yawkey, the club's millionaire owner, who arrived here in time to see his hirelings take a 6-3 pasting from the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday, expressed gratification over Grove's condition. The Sox will open their inter-league warfare with the Boston Bees here tomorrow.

GIANTS BEAT FARMHANDS. BATON ROUGE, La., March 15.—(AP)—The New York Giants defeated their Jersey City farmhands, 8 to 1, today after being held in check for seven innings. Jersey City scored in the eighth and held the Giant regulars hitless for five innings.

They were Jack Lange, San Diego high school shortstop, and Melvin Skelley, second baseman on the team. Both are 18 and batted better than 350 last year. Lange goes to Knoxville in the Southern association and Skelley to Gadsden.

SINGTON GETS BREAK. CLEARWATER, Fla., March 15.—(AP)—The hitting famine which confronted the Brooklyn Dodgers in their exhibition games caused Manager Leo Durocher to order a three-hour batting drill today. To help the club's power Durocher is considering using Fred Sington in left field instead of Ernie Koy. To date Sington has knocked two home runs and batted an even .400.

SMOKIES GET LANGE. SAN DIEGO, March 15.—(AP)—Two promising Pirate rookies were told today by Manager Pie Traynor that jobs awaited them in the minor leagues. They were Jack Lange, San Diego high school shortstop, and Melvin Skelley, second baseman on the team. Both are 18 and batted better than 350 last year. Lange goes to Knoxville in the Southern association and Skelley to Gadsden.

With Five Ex-Crackers on Squad 'Nooga Signs Atlantan.

By JACK TROY.

It seems that Joe Engel, who was bitten by a mad dog and Judge Kenesaw M. Landis during the winter, has stopped concentrating on ex-Crackers for the time being and is now going in for Atlanta residents.

Bob Smith is the latest addition. Recently Smith said he might retire from baseball, but now Chattanooga has added him to the roster for a tryout.

Smith, former long-time major league right-hander, is an old friend of Manager Kiki Cuyler, and "is just the type of man we want on the club," Kiki says.

"He has good habits, knows how to teach pitchers' moves to bases, and will be an all-round help in lots of ways," Cuyler adds. "I have an agreement with him that it all depends on one thing, friendship or no friendship—his arm must be in shape. He says it is. See, if his arm is in shape, he'll be my relief man. If it is not, he won't be with us."

Any day now it won't be surprising to read that Engel has lured Carlisle (Red) Smith out of retirement, and that the mighty red-head will be stationed at third for the Lookouts this summer. If Engel can't get all ex-Crackers he's going to settle for Atlanta residents to complete the roster, it seems.

Probably if Engel hadn't been bitten by a mad dog during the winter, he might contemplate returning to the mound himself. After all, the Lookouts have Red Lucas, who 17 years ago pitched for Nashville.

Judge Landis politely said "no" to Engel's proposed penning day stunt. Joe wanted to stage a bull fight, but the high commissioner of baseball might have "tured there is enough 'bull' about the Lookouts without the necessity of advertising same."

Bob Smith, who finished his big league career with the Bees and managed Jacksonville, of the Sally league, part of last season, may make the Lookouts a good relief pitcher. Engel will supply the comedy relief.

FARR PAYS FINE.

LONDON, March 15.—(AP)—Tommy Farr paid a fine of $3,750 and was reinstated today by the British boxing control board. The fine was for failing to meet Max Schmeling October 14. Farr fights Red Burman at Harringay April 13.

Constitution Offers Free Public Showing Of Sports Pictures

Jack Lamb's Famous Hunting, Fishing Series in Technicolor To Be Presented Friday Night at Shrine Temple.

By JACK TROY.

Fishermen, hunters, flower lovers—all outdoor people in general, attention: Friday night at the Shrine temple in the Fox theater building, Jack Lamb, world's most famous fisherman and an expert cameraman in his own right, will present a series of his nationally famous technicolor films in a two-hour show sponsored by The Constitution. It's FREE!

The pictures, which took years to complete and required such things as 78 miles of walking in Canada to get, will interest everybody. Camera enthusiasts will be interested in the technique of the films. Garden lovers will be interested in the garden scenes. Hunters will be enthused over the hunting scenes and, of course, the lookalikes will get a tremendous kick out of all the fishing shots.

As Jack Lamb says, "I've got pictures that will knock 'em for a loop."

Jack Lamb is an Oklahoman by birth and for more years than he cares to admit, he has been roaming the land with fishing as his job—fishing and taking pictures. The Constitution is presenting these magnificent works of Mr.

Lamb through the courtesy of the Gulf Refining Company, whom he represents. Many years ago he became a sort of ambassador of good will for Gulf, and has appeared in all the major and minor cities of the United States. He has shown his pictures and given exhibitions of casting in many places.

There is absolutely no admission price and for the general public's information, there will be no reserved seats. Naturally, it will be a case of first come first served. Everybody is welcome and the pictures certainly will prove most entertaining.

The show will begin at 8 o'clock and, as said, will run for two full hours.

Entry Is Largest for Doubles Meet in Entire United States.

With 12 pairs of men and women adding their names to the entry list Wednesday evening, there are now 140 couples signed to bowl in the seventh annual staging of The Constitution "St. Patrick's Day" doubles bowling tournament, that will be rolled on a handicap basis Saturday morning, afternoon and evening. Breaking all records for the nation in entry, this one-day doubles is proving its popularity.

Gulf Oil Corporation bowling league players turned in a big entry of seven pairs of pinmen with W. N. Gouge and A. T. Neal, D. A. Ratliff and F. R. Lawrence, M. L. Waller and W. H. Barnes, Bob Getzen and Roy Tinsley, C. E. Dunn and N. J. Harmon, Bill Hargrove and W. H. Brown and L. C. R. Deck and R. L. Castleberry included in the entry.

ENTRY LIST SWELLS.
Other entries, to compete in the women's division, include Sarah Garner and Vivian Bonner, Lucille Day and Laura Eaves and Virginia Harkey and Lundy Dean, R. M. Nix and C. E. Hall and U. Allen and Charles Biggers filed entries for the men's event.

A communication from Norcross, Ga., advises that at least four couples will be rolling in the meet from that city. Mrs. Carl Tidwell will be paired with Melba Strain in the women's event under the Rome (Ga.) colors. Bowlers from Albany, Macon, Decatur, Columbus and LaGrange are planning to roll in the meet.

Four separate times for the bowling of the five games in this handicap event have been established so that every player will have a convenient "hour" for turning in his games. Game times are at 11:30 a. m., 1:30 p. m., 5:00 p. m., and 7:30 p. m.

ON TWO ALLEYS.
Games may be rolled at either the uptown Lucky Strike or downtown Blick's Bowling Center drives at either of the designated times.

The beautiful gold medals that will be awarded the winners are on display at the downtown alleys.

If you have not already filed your entry, get a doubles partner and mail or phone your entry now for five games of truly exciting tournament competition in the doubles event that attracts more bowlers than any other one day doubles event in the nation.

'CLIPPER' SMITH
QUITS DUQUESNE

PITTSBURGH, March 15.—(AP)—John P. (Little Clipper) Smith resigned today as head football coach and athletic director at Duquesne University.

Smith learned his football under the famed Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame. He coached at Trinity College, North Carolina State, and Newark (N. J.) Academy, and was an assistant coach at Georgetown before coming here in 1935 as line coach under Christy Flanagan. He succeeded Flanagan as coach in 1936.

Donelli Named To Replace Smith.

PITTSBURGH, March 15.—(AP)—Aldo (Buff) Donelli, young assistant football coach at Duquesne University, was selected tonight as acting head coach and director of athletics to replace John P. (Clipper) Smith, who resigned.

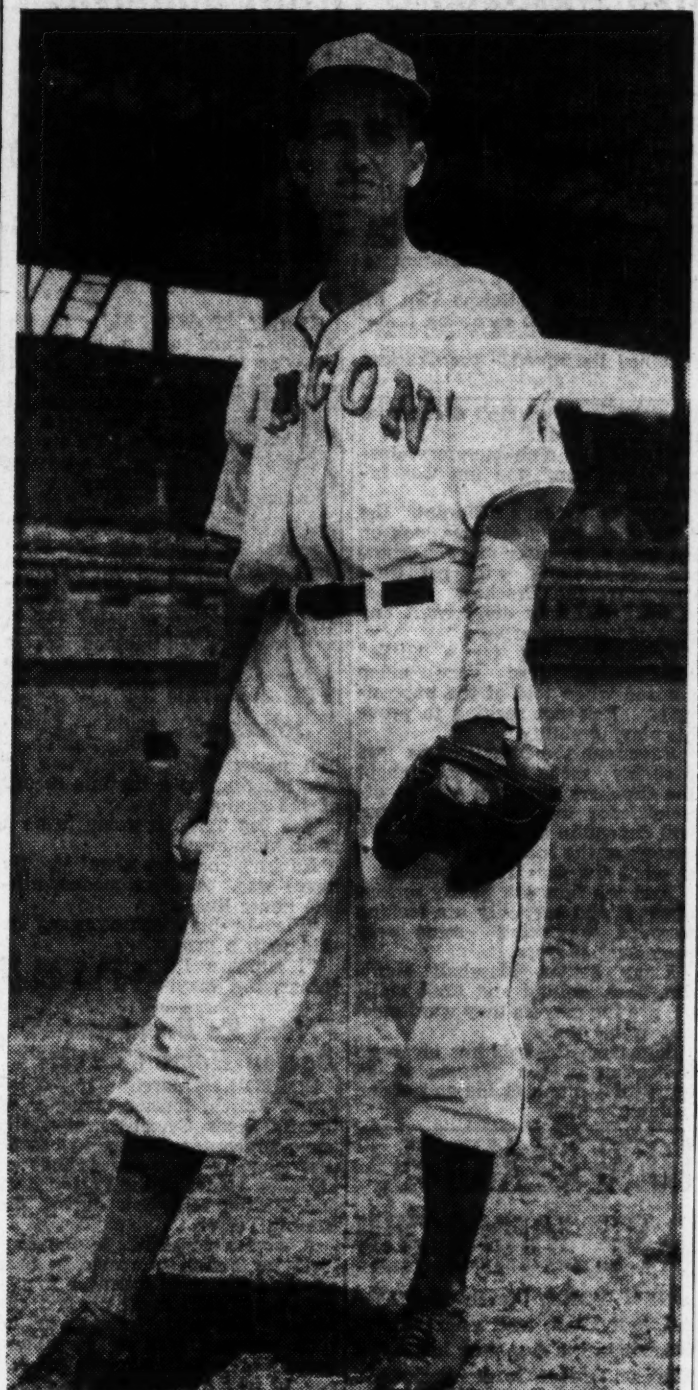

Donelli named Steve Sinko, of Los Angeles, one-time Duquesne tackle, as his first assistant.

Mack Plans New Bid

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 15.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, whose offer of Third Baseman Bill Werber for Outfielder Earl Averill was rejected by the Cleveland club, hinted today that he would make a fresh proposal this week to Manager Oscar Vitt of the Indians.

Mack will see Vitt when the Athletics go to New Orleans Saturday to open a two-day exhibition series with Cleveland. He wouldn't say what his new proposal was. Averill, a powerful hitter, is still a holdout.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 15.—Al Rubeling, rookie third baseman, and Mack Stewart, rookie right-hander, purchased from the Macon Peaches yesterday, signed 1939 Atlanta contracts here tonight.

Rubeling, ill all of last year and recently reinstated from the voluntarily retired list, has been working out with the Crackers since the opening of the training period, while Stewart joined the club this morning.

Manager Richards announced tonight that practice games will be played all next week with Savannah, since both the Crackers and Indians have an abundance of material to look over before the season opens.

been scheduled with Savannah, following a conference with Bobby Lamotte, the president, and Chick Autry, the Indian manager.

Wednesday, March 22, and Monday, March 27, are the new dates. Tentative plans call for the March 27 game at night, should the weather be favorable. "I am glad that Stewart will be out of the league this season," Autry said when he learned of his sale to the Crackers, "he beat the Indians three out of four games in the play-off series."

Tubize Mills, at Rome, Ga., April 7, is the only other tentative date for the Crackers' spring games, all others remaining as scheduled.

stick to their domicile, huddled like a varsity squad. But if the day is going to be fair and pretty, and the fishing good, you will probably find your prize fowls scratching in some neighbor's garden a half-block away.

"Visibility and wind direction are still other things that have a bearing on the bass. Low, threatening storm clouds seem to retard them from striking, while fair success can be expected on hazy, half-clear days. The warm, clear day, however, is by far the best. So, watch your barometer.

"Every fisherman defests an east wind, and justly so. For east winds are usually the forerunners of many weather changes, and especially of rain. If one drew a circle, it would show eight main wind directions that, from a fishing standpoint, would represent the following:

"Southwest—Perfect.
"West—Good.
"Northwest—Fair.
"North—Poor.
"Northeast—Terrible.
"East—Impossible.
"Southeast—Bad.
"South—Good.

"Likewise, temperature has a decided effect on the game bass, and a wise man consults his thermometer to determine their range. Contrary to general opinion, these fish remain at the surface during hot weather, and go deep in the winter. Eighty degrees Fahrenheit is the perfect fishing temperature, and is the approximate temperature which brings fish to the surface."

HIS FAVORITE STORY.

Lamb's favorite fish story concerns a youth he met once on a remote creek. As he approached, he saw him whiz a snake-like lure into the water. He had five or six plugs, tandem spinners, and bucktails fastened together in a contrivance about 20 inches long.

"Son, what do you call that?" I asked.
"That," he answered, "is my cafeteria bait."
"Cafeteria bait?" I puzzled. "That's the funniest named lure I ever saw. Why do you call it that?"

"Well, you see, it's like this," he grinned. "I just drag it past the fish, and they pick out what they want." Lamb figures that is the way most people fish.

U. S. Horses Eligible For Aintree Event

LONDON, March 15.—(AP)—Two American-owned horses, Mrs. Marion DuPont Scott's War Vessel and Mrs. Louis E. Stoddard's Milano, remained eligible for the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, March 24, when the list of 38 final acceptances was posted today.

The withdrawal of F. Ambrose Clark's La Touche left the United States with its smallest representation in recent years in the world's jumping classic. Royal Mail, 1937 winner in which the United States also has an interest in that he is owned by the former American actress, Mrs. Camille Evans, also was kept eligible.

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—
(AP)—The average price of

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP) Cotton rested on a lower plane for most of today's session, but firming near the end, closed 2 points down to 1 point up.

Except in some diversion of professional support the futures list was not noticeably affected by the unsettling repercussions of yesterday's breakup of Czechoslovakia. Operators, who might have done something on the buying side, held to the sidelines because of weakness of security markets on the foreign news.

Trade price fixing was the principal steadying influence. Bombay and Liverpool selling tapered off after a considerable volume of contracts had been absorbed.

Brokers reported

business and activities in spot markets were feeling the repressive influence of the Washington legislative situation with its angles of uncertainty.

Trading belief that Secretary Wallace's export - subsidy plan would tend to eliminate premiums on the old crop positions was reflected by sales of near-by positions against purchases of new crop months.

WHITEHEAD NAMED IN 2 INDICTMENTS

Auto Thefts Charged; Inman Appointed Foreman of U. S. Jury.

Thomas Jefferson Whitehead, who was caught and jailed by FBI agents last January after leading law enforcement officers in a merry chase for nearly a month, was indicted by the March federal grand jury for the third time yesterday.

Both indictments were for auto theft. Last Monday the jury found a true bill against Whitehead, charging him with impersonating a federal officer.

Whitehead, who was wanted for a previous escape, was wounded in a gun battle with officers last December in Lakeview, Ga. A few days later, he held up his guard in a Chattanooga hospital where he was being treated, took his clothes, and fled to Atlanta.

En route here, he posed as a federal officer and commandeered an automobile. According to the testimony of his family, he spent the night in the stolen car in a vacant lot on Peters street, while city and county police and federal agents were combing the town for him, and disappeared the next morning. A few weeks later, FBI agents picked him up in Huntsville, Ala., and returned him to Atlanta.

The jury, under its new foreman, Frank M. Inman Sr., returned 16 other indictments against persons charged with violations of alcohol tax unit laws. Inman was appointed foreman of the jury by Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood, when the previous foreman, Robert L. Foran Sr., asked to be relieved of his duties.

A. M. E. MISSIONARY LEADER TO SPEAK

Lucy M. Hughes, president of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the A. M. E. church, who recently returned from an extended tour of South Africa, will lecture at 8 o'clock tonight at Big Bethel A. M. E. church.

President Hughes visited the mission field in South Africa, its customs and possibilities of South Africa.

TARZAN AND THE FIRES OF TOHR No. 16

Tarzan's quick faculties took in the situation at a glance. The yellow giants blocked their path. The ape-man returned to the others and gave them the bitter news. "Then we might turn back," suggested Major Burton, "and see if we can find another trail."

Tarzan was to agree when suddenly he cocked his head and raised a hand to command silence. Now he heard voices again, down the trail they had just traversed. Another party of yellow men was coming from that direction. The fugitives were trapped!

"We must try to slip through ahead," Tarzan said grimly. "Come!" The others followed to the edge of the clearing, where he explained his desperate plan. "That boat there. If we can dash across the clearing and reach it before they discover us, we'll be safe."

Tarzan knew there was less than an even chance of achieving their goal, but there was no other alternative. "D'Arnot will lead," he whispered, "and I'll bring up the rear. Now—ready?" One by one they nodded, each with a smile of brave resignation. "Then go!"

Today in Atlanta's History

One Year Ago Today, Wednesday, March 16, 1938:

The Layman's Organization for Preservation of the Southern Methodist Church made plans to fight unification as Methodists from north Georgia gathered here to observe the 200th anniversary of the conversion of John Wesley.

Two Years Ago Today, Tuesday, March 16, 1937:

Relief in Atlanta and Fulton county came to a virtual standstill when the aldermanic board held up release of $12,500 voted by council as the March donation.

Five Years Ago Today, Friday, March 16, 1934:

Huge increases in tax assessments were handed railroads and telephone companies which had successfully opposed Governor Talmadge's efforts to reduce their rates, the increase approxi-

matng $145,000,000.
Ten Years Ago Today, Saturday, March 16, 1929:
Establishment of the "Continental Sunday" in Atlanta through legalizing of commercial amusements was rapped by the Atlanta Christian Council, which threatened action to defeat the proposal.

Fifteen Years Ago Today, Sunday, March 16, 1924:

Henry Hyers, former member of the state legislature and well known in Georgia political circles, died at his home on East North avenue.
